

POWELL'S BALSAM OF ANISEED.

COUGHS, COLDS, SHORTNESS OF BREATH, ASTHMAS, &c.

THE Invaluable Medicine has the extraordinary property of immediately relieving Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, difficulty of Breathing, and Huskiness in the Throat. It operates by dissolving the congealed Phlegm, consequently causing a free expectoration.

Those who are troubled with that unpleasant tickling in the Throat, which deprives them of rest at night, by the incessant Cough which it provokes, will, by taking one dose, find immediate relief; and one bottle in most cases will effect a cure.

In Asthma, Chronic Coughs, difficulty of Breathing, &c. no pen can describe the wonders that have been performed by this invaluable Medicine: many, who for years have been unable to lay down in their beds without a danger of being choked by the accumulation of Phlegm, (which invariably causes a dreadful Cough) others, who with difficulty could breathe at all in a recumbent posture, have, by taking one dose of this excellent Balsam, been enabled to lay down comfortably in their beds.

Mr. Wm. Hough, Montreal. Sir—Having been for a very long time troubled with a severe cough, with difficulty of breathing (particularly when lying down) so much so, as at times almost to produce suffocation, and after trying several remedies in hopes of a cure but without effect, I was induced during my late visit to Montreal, to purchase a Bottle of Powell's Balsam of Aniseed, having heard of its extraordinary properties, and I beg to assure you that the effect it had upon me, after taking one or two doses, was an almost instantaneous cure. I am happy to observe that you have forwarded a supply of this invaluable Medicine to Mr. H. Smith, of Kingston, and I have no doubt the demand for it will be as extensive in Upper Canada (in proportion to the population) as in any other part of the world where its virtues are known.

Important Caution. Observe that the words "Thomas Powell, Black Friars Road, London," are by permission of His Majesty's Hon'ble Commissioners of Stamps Engraved in White Letters upon a Red Ground, in the Government Stamp, pasted over the top of each Bottle, without which it cannot be genuine.

Coughs, Astmas, and Consumptions.

THE Public are respectfully informed that ANDERSON'S COUGH DROPS and PECTORAL POWDERS as prepared by James Mellen, & Co. have for an extensive use for 10 years past, proved themselves to be one of the most valuable remedies ever yet discovered, for the cure of Coughs, Colds and other affections of the breast and lungs leading to Consumptions. Thousands have experienced the happy effects of this Healing Balsam, and many of the highest respectability have voluntarily given certificates, some of which will accompany each Bottle, that will satisfy every unprejudiced mind that the most extraordinary and unexpected cures have been performed by the use of this medicine in cases of long standing, in which other medicine had produced no favourable effect, and where the most skillful physicians had given them up as hopeless.

DISSOLUTION OF PARTNERSHIP. NOTICE—The Partnership in the Butchering line, heretofore subsisting between the subscribers, and carried on under the firm of Davis and Shortall, has been dissolved by mutual consent. All debts due by the concern will be settled by Mr. Henry Davis to whom accounts are requested to be presented for adjustment, and all indebted to the concern are requested to make payment to the same, he being fully authorized to grant acquittances.

HALF AND HALF. OR, A NEW HEADING OF REPORTS. I love with all my heart. The forty party here. The bold reformer's part, Most hateful dost appear, And for disfranchisement I ever have denied, My conscience gives consent. To be of service to the nation, to stand for a right thing, To send the borough laws. Will Britain's ruin bring. This is my mind and heart, In England's name, The noble shall take my part. Resolve to live and die.

SCENE IN A PRINTING-ROOM. "What are you engaged in?" said the head printer of a newspaper establishment to one of the compositors—"In an assignment." "Stop," said his interrogator, "I want you to take share in a murder."

ROUGH REMEDY.—Harvey was a great martyr to the gout, and his method of treating himself was singular. He would sit with his legs bathed, and in a stormy weather, on the leads of Cockaine House where he lived for some time with his brother, Eliah, or put them into a pail of water, till he was almost dead with cold, and then take himself to the stove, and so it was done.—[Lanct.]

SHORT DIALOGUE MUCH TO THE POINT. A. Pray will you be so good as to take my great coat to town in your carriage?—B. With pleasure; but how will you get it again?—A. Oh, very easily; I shall return it.

DEATH OF ALEXANDER DAWSON, LATE M. P. FOR LOUTH. We state with deep feelings of regret, the death of Alexander Dawson, which event took place at his lodgings in Downing street, on the 28th August. The late excellent Member for Louth combined so many good qualities that we scarcely know which to select for remark. In private life he was distinguished by a sound liberal and social disposition which suited him to a man. Brought up to the Irish Bar, he practiced at it with considerable success, and was regarded by his brethren in the profession, and by the public, as a sound and judicious lawyer. The delicate state of his health prevented him from attending to his profession with that laborious assiduity which, in us, may say, indispensably necessary for a working lawyer.—Inheriting a handsome competency, he by degrees, and drew himself from the drudgery of the Bar, and devoted much of his attention to the affairs of the Grand Canal Company, of which for many years he was a leading and influential Director. Litterature, in all its departments, was his sole avocation. He took deep interest in the affairs of that excellent and highly useful institution, "the Dublin Library Society," of which he was Committee member, and subsequently Vice President. We have witnessed his exertions at meetings of that society, and have heard his fervid and striking language with instruction and pleasure, little thinking at the time that he was destined a few years after to perform as prominent a part in "The Great Council."

He loved Ireland too well to refuse; he was too devotedly attached to liberty of conscience to hesitate; he at once embarked himself with all the enthusiasm of youth in the cause of the people; he was returned by a triumphant majority, and by his generous devotion of himself, he made the Irish people sensible of their strength; he laid the foundation stone of Catholic Emancipation. It is needless to recall to the recollection of our readers the effect produced on the British Senate by his maiden speech. Canning—the gifted, the eloquent Canning—declared it to be most effective and powerful of diction. To us who knew him, his success was not surprising; but to the crowd, who judge but from appearance, his modesty so deeply veiled his talent, that his success appeared startling. From his first appearance in Parliament, Mr. Dawson has maintained a consistent majority, and has invariably voted in favour of popular rights and the extension of liberal institutions. He witnessed the triumph of emancipation, and had nearly lived to witness that of "Reform"—one, the enfranchisement of a people, the other the enfranchisement of a people. "Well Sergeant" Death snatches him from us—us—the grave closes his mortal remains at the moment of victory. Almost his last breath was poured out in aspirations for the success of that great measure, sought for by the nation, and sanctioned by the King. The protracted sittings and late hours, unpermitted by "Tory opposition" and "pinks rage," hastened his demise. He sinks into the tomb with a name rendered honorable, we will say distinguished, by his undeviating attachment to liberty, and indissolubly connected with the emancipation of his Catholic countrymen.—[Dublin Morning Post.]
