Our immense, crushing, ding, destroying debt, has been trumed in harsh and dismal strains, until the echoes of the radical outeries might tle the slumbering waters of Lake Suor, nor cease their volteying exclamaas till they struck the frowning summits the Rocky Mountains. The debt, the rid debt, has been used as a bug bear to then children, or as a lever to turn the vince upside down. We might then ely expect that when the radicals obtainthe management of public affairs they uld carefully abstain from incurring any ot, would sacredly confine their expenare to their current revenue, and emrk in no speculations that would anticithe resources of future years. For elve months the radicals have been mass of Toronto, and they are so far from ring to their own principles that they ve not only spent every farthing of the hest taxes that the law allowed them to e, but have also contracted a debt of e than a thousand pounds! Such is cal consistency! So different is their duct when in power from their speechnd promised behaviour when out of
