My election defeated a powerful party, who would therefore have opposed any measure I should have introduced into Parliament. There were many then, impatiently hostile to the removal of the Seat of Government from Toronto to Kingston, who have united in efforts to defeat any measure introduced for the benefit of Kingston; and the Government party, displeased at my refusal to give place to Mr. Harrison, would not have supported, if they had not opposed me; and as I have been placed in the unenviable position of incapacity to carry any measure in the House. It is obvious, therefore, I had no alternative but to submit to the controlling impulse of subserving the true interests of my Constituents, by securing to them what I most ardently longed to have been irrevocably established by it—that Kingston should remain the capital of Canada, as King as Canada existed.

In the proud conviction of the rectitude of my determination, and persuaded that those generous friends who so unequivocally manifested their confidence in my zeal and ability to serve them, will give me full credit for candor and sincerity, I offer them the assurance that those were the motives which solely guided my conduct in this to me most painful and unfortunate affair. I and respectfully ask, had I resisted Lord Sydenham's urgent request, and had he threatened removal of the Government now to Montreal, would not by most men be attributed to my refusal?—I must, I am sorry, add, egotistically, that I am noted for Canada for my anxiety to relieve from want, distress, or embarrassments, my fellow men, friend or foe, and that I never set my heart to do so; can any man, then, truly suppose me the base creature to sell the constituency I so sincerely esteemed, and barter my seat for filthy lucre?

I had to accept office to enable me to vacate my seat. I did so; but no inducements could remove me, or entice me from Kingston, where I at that time was—have since been, and now am Agent for the sale and management of Crown Lands, &c. for the Midland District. At the behesting time I will again address you more at length on this subject. In the mean time, permit me thus to renew to each of you my earnest solicitation that you will extend to me the same cordiality of feeling, and unity of action, which so nobly sustained the cause you know I advocate; that of maintaining a fair, honest, impartial, and liberal Administration of Government—not the government of a party, but a Government administered for the benefit of the whole people.

Your sincere friend, A. MANAHAN. March 25, 1844. E. CRANE JR. PLANE MAKER. WOULD inform the trade that from improved facilities for manufacturing, he is enabled to afford Planes of all sorts much CHEAPER than formerly, and warranted of the first quality. Short Planes made to order, and Repairs done at short notice. Kingston, March 19, 1844.

GENTLEMEN—With feelings of greater pride and gratitude than I can express, I have received your requisition inviting me to become a Candidate for the representation of Kingston at the next vacancy. The mode in which I can best vindicate my high sense of the honor you have done me is, at once to lay aside all personal considerations, and accede to your request.

When I observe the numerous names which are attached to this requisition, and which comprises men of all shades of political opinion, I am inspired with the hope of a successful result. Should that result, however be unsuccessful, it will always afford me the highest gratification to have received such flattering proof of the confidence of so many of my friends and fellow citizens.

In presenting myself to the electors of Kingston as a Candidate for their suffrages, I have no objects of personal ambition to gratify, except the advancement of the interests of the Town in which I have lived so long and with whose fortunes my own private is identified, as well as to maintain those principles of public policy, which you justly style "sound and liberal," and which have always actuated our loyal old King. In a young country like Canada, I am of opinion that it is of more consequence to endeavor to develop its resources and improve its physical advantages than to waste the time of the Legislature, and the money of the people, in fruitless discussions on abstract and theoretical questions of government.

FROM HIS EXTENSIVE ACQUAINTANCE WITH THE TRADE generally, he is confident that he can dispose of property with as much dispatch, and to as good advantage as any other in the same line of business. HUGH CALDER, Commercial Wharf, Kingston, 2nd April, 1844.

CROWN LANDS DEPARTMENT.
