

Poetry.

SOME OF CAMPBELL'S LATE POETRY.—The New Monthly Magazine contains the following humorous epigrams, written by the author of Gertrude of Wyoming during his late visit to Algiers.

property in this part of Scotland seems to belong him. Every spot about Hawick is full of historical associations, which the genius of Scott has embodied and vivified, and made as well known in America as in Britain.

LIBERIA.

New-York, Nov. 6th, 1835. To the Editors of the Commercial Advertiser. Messrs.—The Rev. Beverly R. Wilson, an intelligent colored minister of the Methodist Episcopal Church, who has recently spent fourteen months in Liberia, which he visited at his own expense, to ascertain whether he could find there an advantageous home for himself and his family.

The town of Monrovia, (the principal sea port of the colony) stands on the cape of the same name, and has about 300 houses, most of them well built and furnished with several ware houses, the first stories of which are of stone.

If you find a person telling an absolute falsehood—let it pass over in silence; it is not worth your while to make any one your enemy, by proving him a liar. It is always better to smile than to make an enemy by frowns!

Major Mitchell's exploring party, splendidly equipped, sailed at Bathurst last week, for the purpose of completing their survey of the interior of the colony, and proceeded on their journey to a central spot in the Boree country, from whence they will pursue a south-westerly course to the Darling, Murrumbidgee, and Murray rivers.

dependence upon the Government of the Empire, and of Great Britain as the centre, should be maintained.—The Duke of York, to whom this proposal was made, engaged to undertake it, if the Ministers should adopt it, and His Majesty should approve it, but the proposal was rejected by the Minister at the first opening of it, and was, it is supposed, therefore never mentioned to the King: Royal Commissioners who were sent to America after the first resistance to the Stamp Act, were not sent to negotiate.

That individual, who receives £1000 a year for a few weeks' sitting in an arm-chair, to pay whom another £1000 was given to the Speaker of the Council, is clearly a singular English subject, if the words he uses are intended to convey what he really means.

dependence upon the Government of the Empire, and of Great Britain as the centre, should be maintained.—The Duke of York, to whom this proposal was made, engaged to undertake it, if the Ministers should adopt it, and His Majesty should approve it, but the proposal was rejected by the Minister at the first opening of it, and was, it is supposed, therefore never mentioned to the King: Royal Commissioners who were sent to America after the first resistance to the Stamp Act, were not sent to negotiate.

That individual, who receives £1000 a year for a few weeks' sitting in an arm-chair, to pay whom another £1000 was given to the Speaker of the Council, is clearly a singular English subject, if the words he uses are intended to convey what he really means.

Variety.

From the Portland Courier. THINGS IN ENGLAND AND SCOTLAND.—We turned "gentleman" again this day; forbet knight a man who goes on foot in England is no gentleman. When he mounts a stage coach, he is to be a "gentleman."

LIBERIA.—The town of Monrovia, (the principal sea port of the colony) stands on the cape of the same name, and has about 300 houses, most of them well built and furnished with several ware houses, the first stories of which are of stone.

LIBERIA.—The town of Monrovia, (the principal sea port of the colony) stands on the cape of the same name, and has about 300 houses, most of them well built and furnished with several ware houses, the first stories of which are of stone.

LIBERIA.—The town of Monrovia, (the principal sea port of the colony) stands on the cape of the same name, and has about 300 houses, most of them well built and furnished with several ware houses, the first stories of which are of stone.

LIBERIA.—The town of Monrovia, (the principal sea port of the colony) stands on the cape of the same name, and has about 300 houses, most of them well built and furnished with several ware houses, the first stories of which are of stone.

LIBERIA.—The town of Monrovia, (the principal sea port of the colony) stands on the cape of the same name, and has about 300 houses, most of them well built and furnished with several ware houses, the first stories of which are of stone.

Public Record Office Reference

47/58

COPYRIGHT OF PHOTOGRAPH RESERVED TO PUBLIC RECORD OFFICE. FOR PERMISSION TO REPRODUCE, APPLY TO PUBLIC ARCHIVES, OTTAWA.