LETTER IV.

To the Editor of the Cobourg Star. Str.,—Colonization having been long my hobby, it is not to be supposed that I neglected the details by which it may be effected. What I have now to state refers to the mode of effecting settlemen's; and which was submitted to the Directors of th Canada Company, and acted upon by me when the superintendant of their operations in the Prov ince. I believed that I had their unqualified con-sent to every thing I did,—considering their in-structions and covenants with Government at my

"Though it may be expedient to possess the power from the proprietors of the Company of making advances to settlers, the directors ought to be king advances to settlers, the directors ought to be extremely cautions in the exercise and management of it, as being at all times very hazardous; for the only profitable assistance which can be rafely given to facilitate settlement, is by opening roads and laying down the rudiments of a willage in some eligible situation. Accordingly, and with reference to what has been successfully done in the western territory of the State of New York, I would suggest for the consideration of the Court that in locating Blocks the operations should be sin.

selves with habitations.

II. The construction of a smithy and a mill are also in dispensable, but individuals may be found who will undertake them.

III. The establishment of a store of all sorts of necessaries. Individuals may also be found to de this.

IV. The erection of a temporary Church and Around this nucleus of a town great care should be taken so to dispose and arrange the sites for building as to induce that class of settlers to fix there, who would become purchasers of lands in the adjacant country.

From the village a road should be opened to th

most convenient place of access by water, or to the highways of the old settlements. With these fa-culities the increase of society will soon work out the desired effects.

"But in drawing attention to the subject of set-tlements, I should observe, that in the early un-dertakings of the great American purchasers the system was confessedly but injudiciously carried into effect. The taverns in some places were of the most preposterous magnificence. The Hotel at Geneva, in the Genesee country is said to have cost originally seven thousand pounds! All the inns along the line of road from Utica to the banks of the Niagara, are with few exceptions, equal i point of style and accommodation to those upon the great road between London and Elinburgh.— Buildings, however, much inferior will supply ev-ery thing required. At the same time, it is prope to observe, that the American speculators have ne-ver addressed themselves to needy emigrants, bu on the contrary have uniformly laid themselves out for persons of a more affluent description; and it is perhaps on this account that they have sacri ficed, in the beginning of their towns more to show than might now seem to have been necessary.— As their system, however, has been successful in attracting settlers possessed of capital, the Directors of the Canada Company should still bear it i mind, when deliberating concerning the expedien cy of similar undertakings.

Sir, it will probably occur to your own recoile tion, that this is the system I pursued at Guelph, and I have yet to learn in what it was erroneous. By and by I shall have to shew that I acted ac cording to impressions made on the Government. In one word, I am not, after so many years, disposed to think the system was wrong, nor that the Canada Company Directors manifested either absolute wisdom or inspiration when they condemned I am, &c. &.

On or about the 1st February, 1837, will be published, the specimen number of a work proposed to be issued monthly, entitled

THE UPPER CA TADA PARMER A paper devoted to Agriculture and General Improvements in Upper Canada.

"Speed the Plough." "Speed the Plough."

I VERY town and almost every village of importance in the Province has its public press and issues its newspaper; but strange to say, Upper Canada, though dependent solely on the resources an! cultivation of a virgin soil, does not possess within heiself any similar means for the diffusion of useful knowledge and information, adapted to the situation and wants of her Agricultural population. An overweening regard, as it were, has been paid by the guardians of the press were, has been paid by the guardians of the press to the growth of correct political principles, while the domestic economy of the country, involving local improvements, as well as the encouragement of settlement and population, has been seriously neglected.

It cannot be forgotten, that wealth, that univer-It cannot be lorgotten, that wealth, that univer-sal desideratum, must in a new country like Up-per Canada, spring chiefly, if not entirely, from the soil. Nature has wisely ordered that the in-herent principle of self preservation, which excites any one man to use exertion for his own support, should by degrees extend its beneficial influence to the well being of others, until the whole family of mankind are included within the circle of mutua mankind are included within the circle of mutual and useful operation: thus the surplus with which she increases the industry of man in the simplest state of his physical existence, becomes by renewed perseverance, in reality property, by a gradual system commencing with the very elements of national wealth—Agricultural pursuits, and leading on to the higher characteristics of prosperity—Commerce and Manufactures.

A great writer says: "No equal capital puts into motion a greater quantity of productive labor to motion a greater quantity of productive labor than that of the Farmer. Not only his laboring servants, but his laboring cattle are productive laborers. In Agriculture too, Nature labors alon with man; and though her labor costs no expense it produces its value as well as that of the most expensive workman. No equal quantity of pro-ductive labor employed in manufactures, can ever procession so great a re-production. In these Na-ure does nothing,—man does all, and the re-pro-duction must always be in proportion to the strength of the agents that occasion it. The capital cmof the agents that occasion it. The capital employed in Agriculture, therefore, not only puts into motion a greater quantity of productive labor than any equal capital employed in manufactures, but in proportion to the quantity of productive labor which it employs, it adds a much greater value to the annual produce of the land and the labor of the country, to the real wealth and revenue of its inhabitants."—Dr. Smith's Environ.

In the soil of Upper Canada lies the germ of fu-ture national greatness and prosperity; and it wants but that the value of her natural resources wants but that the value of her natural resources should be properly appreciated, so that they may be used with success, to provide in the country productive labor sufficient to employ nearly a thou-sand times the number of its present population.— How much such a state of things would add to individual property and the revenue of the country, may be imagined. Agriculture has been beautifully observed to be "the base, Commerce the shaft, and Manufactures the capital." As soon as the first is firmly laid, the progress of the country will be certain and irresistible, until the last finishings shall be given to the work, and Upper Canada stand a pillar of du-rability and wealth amongst the nations of the

A numerous class of settlers that emigrate from the old country to this Province consists of persons not accustomed to farming pursuits even at home; it is not to be supposed, therefore, that they can clear and cultivate wild lands with advantage, without either acquiring experience at great per-sonal expense, or being furnished with information which they can reduce to practice with confidence

A stronger proof of the utility of such Associations cannot be given than in the case of Massachusets, where there is an Agricultural Society established which receives $10,000 per annum from the State Treasury. The editor is sanguing from the success which has attended publications of the kind in the United States, that in issuing the first Agricultural Paper ever (he believes) published in Upper Canada, and one adapted to its local situation and comparative wants, he will meet with support from the public to whose interest the work will be devoted.
