and notice to the Morning Hymn.

"Praise God, from whom all blessings flow;
Praise him all creatures here below;
Praise him above, ye here'nly host;
Praise him above, ye here'nly host;
Praise him above, ye here'nly host;
Praise Father, Son, and Holy Ghost!"
After this, the Annual Report of the Society of the nast year, was read; after which the folpraing Resolutions were passed:
1st. That the Report now read, be adopted, and spated under the direction of the Committe.

2d. That the success which has attended the Swiety during the past year, notwithstanding the inspicious circumstances under which it commanded, should encourage us to renewed exertions during the coming year, which opens with prosthe coming year, which opens with prosang the commary car, which opens with pros-tes so much brighter.

3d. That the principles on which the Society is established, and the good it is calculated to compished, should secure to it the decided nort and co-operation of all good men, and estings next Friday Evening, and the question discussion shall be-" Are the Works of Nature fficient of themselves to prove the existence of Supreme Being."

The business of the evening being ended, Dr. leagher left the Chair upon a motion to that ef-ect, and Mr. W, Collins was called thereto, the nect, and Mr. W. Colins was called thereby, in-thanks of the meeting were then voted to Dr. Meagher, for his able conduct in the Chair. After the Choir performing an appropriate piece, the meeting was closed with Prayer.

During the evening, several addresses were de-wered, and several Anthems and Overtures were performed, which conduced to keep up the enter-tainment of the evening in a lively and becoming manner. Byron's "Destruction of Sennacherib's Army," was sung by a friend present, which eli-cited repeated bursts of applause. Owing to the absence, from illness, of some of the Members, to whom were assemed the receiver of some of the whom were assigned the moving of some of the Resolutions, the addresses were not so numerous as was expected, but, on the whole, the Soiree passed off in a maner which exceeded the most san-guine expectations of its friends. Having, Mr. Editor, already occupied so much your valuable paper I shall not now trouble you with many remarks.

The moral which this affair teaches, is a very important one, viz.: that the objection which has been raised against young persons embracing reli-gion, as having a tendency of checking that vivacity so peculiar to youth, and making them melan-choly and morose is quite refuted, as it is seen from this afair that they who do indeed make a professon of Christianity can partake of rational amuse-ments without carousing over the intoxicating bowl, or engaging in midnight revelry and deauchery.

I have but one more remark to make, and it is one, which I make with all humbleness of mind, and which I hazard, with the hope that if I am in error, my youth and inexperience will alone plead error, my youth and inexperience will alone pieau my excuse. Does it not speak an affecting tale, of the low state of religion in this land, and the apathy of christians, that Young Men are left to fight their own battles, single handed, and to grope their own way through the maze of this world.

Methinks that if anything is calculated to arouse hinks that if anything is calculated to arous that apathy, the above proceedings should; for it young men, are of themselves thus desirous of acquing that moral and intellectual instruction which tends to nourish their good principles, and to improve their moral ways the prowhich tends to nourish their good principles, and to improve their minds, surely they may with propriety, any, I had almost said, "even with boldness," take up the language of the man of Macedoni, saying, "Come over and help us."

The Vindicator was published last night, and, The Vindicator was published last night, and, expecting as we did a quantum of lies regarding the riot of Monday, we must confess we were totally unprepared for the bouncer, "overwhelming defeat of the Tories", at the head of its leading article. The Vindicator says that stones were thrown into the yard where the "Sons of Liberty" were assembled, and that on their leaving the yard, they were fallen upon by a crowd of Tories who lay in wait for them without, and attacked them in a most furious manner, with sticks, stones, and other sorts of weapons. These are two deliberate falschoods, as one of their party, the only really honest one of it that we know, can testify. He has since called the "Sons of Liberty" every thing but brave or courageous, and has rencunced all connection with them, on account of their cowardly conduct on Monday in attacking a few unarmed peaceable citizens. To make amends for the cowardice displayed by these "Sons of Libertity and the program of the cowardice displayed by these "Sons of Libertity with the cowardice displayed by these "Minerye will be program of the ty", we are informed to-morrow's Minerve wil contain a communication signed by thirty individ-als, defying an equal number of the invincible Dorics to mortal combat, whose answer will no

"____come on Mac Duff, And damned be he who first cries, Hold! Enough!" The Vindicator says, that the loyalists proceeded up Gesford Street to attack the drilling house, whereas they went up the Main Street of the St. Lawrence Suburb, and from thence turned into Dorchester Street to the house alluded to. There was no premeditated plan to attack the Vindicator Office or any other property, but the mob could not be restrained; every exertion was used to prevent violence, but the insolence of the impotent faction exasperated the loyalists.

SYMPATHY FROM WITHOUT. To the Editor of the Mentreal Herald

2d. That the principles on which the Society was established, and the good it is calculated to recompished, should secure to it the decided sprort and co-operation of all good men, and especially—Young Men.

4th. That as the winter is now commencing, and the Society about to resume its regular meetings, a favourable occasion presents itself for Young Men not yet members, to join the Society. The predicament in which the Editor of the Vindicator is placed this monthly reminds me of Young Men not yet members of the Society return their sincere thanks to the different Clergymen who were solicited to preach to the Institution, for the readiness with which they complied with the requist; and to whom the members are highly indebted, for the invaluable instructions afforded them.

6th. That the Society render thanks to Almight God for its preservation and the increase of its members, during the past year.

7th. That God willing, and looking for His blessing, the Society shall resume its weekly meetings next Friday Evening, and the question state that the excitement which prevaits in Burlington, and indeed in every part of Vermont, is indeed inconceivable. No stranger "from the North?" can enter the place without being interrogated as to whether or not the troops and Papineau men are fighting in the streets of Montreal; when the Custom the North? have the exercising of the Widicalor be next spring? even the whole village, is destroyed; and whe-ther or not sundry dozens of men were shot in L'-Acadie. These questions, and many others hujus Acadie. These questions, and many others hajus generis, were put to me, and of course answered properly. I afterwards entered into a disquisition on Canadian politics, as much with the view of learning our neighbours' opinions, as of informing them, on the subject. Generally speaking, I must say they are well informed; their errors are generally such as believing that there are 10,000 troops in Canada, that the governor is a military man, &c. &c. I asked them if the Americans would assist Papineau? They replied, "Our territory is too large already—we oppose the admission of Texas into the Union, and we would oppose that of Canada." Leaving this out of the question, however, they continued: "We would never assist Papineau; we know that he has assumed the name of a Reformer, but we know that he is the veriest tory—the veriest tyrant that ever existed; should he succeed no man could hold an opinion During the whole of Saturday last considerable excitement existed in town, owing to a report having been very generally circulated that the "Sons of Liberty" intended to parade the streets on Monday and that there would likely be a collision between them and the Members of the Doric Club. This excitement was increased on Sanday, in consequence of the magistrates having issued a proclamation, requesting all persons to refrain from joining in any procession, or assist in any way to break the peace. Although it was not known at what hour or place the "Sons of Liberty" would meet, a placard was posted on the walls on Monday morning, calling on the different ward associations to assemble at a past twelve o'clock "to crush rebellion in the bud." Still there was no signs of the opposite party appearing, and itwas generally believed they had abandoned their absurd attempt. About two o'clock they began to muster in the yard of Bonacina's tavern, in front of the American Presbyterian Church, Great St. James Street.—
The muster attracted the attention of some Constitutionalists, who remained to look on, when all at once the narty inside the yard about 250 in the world and State—in fine, who are Reformers.
