THE LAPIES' COMPANION,

(Established in 1834.) a popular and highly esteemed Magazine of general Literature and the Fin+Arts, embellished with Gotzeous and Costly Engravines, on Steel, Copper and Wood; and also with fashionable and popular music, arranged for the Piano-Fort, Grittas and Harp. Editors Mrs. Ann S. Stephens, William W. Snowden Assisted by many of the most popular writers.

Assisted by many of the most popular writers.

SINCE the publication of the May number, the demand for the LADIES' COSIPANION has been unprecedented and beyond the most sanguine anticipations. At the commencement of the volume an additional number of co,ies were printed, which was considered at the time adequate to satisfy all the orders which might be received, and leave a considerable number on hand for subsequent calls. The publisher is more than gratified in string that the whole edition was nearly exhausted before the issuing of the seventh number of the volume; and at this time but very few complete sets remain on hand, to supply the numerous orders which are daily received from every section of the United States.

orders which are daily received from every section of the United States.

In consequence of this great unforseen increase of new subscribers, he has determined to double the number of impressions for the subsequent year; while he most gratefully appreciates the unprecedented encouragement extended to the Ladie's Companion, and at the same time he begs to assure the readers of the magazine and the public in general, that it is his ardent resolution to meet it with a corresponding liberality on his part to merit its a corresponding liberality on his part to merit its

THE MUSICAL DEPARTMENT
Is under the supervision of MR. J. VATSON, whose qualifications for the task are too well known to need our testimony.

This department of the Ladies' Companion has ever commanded a large share of attention, and has been looked upon with no little inteest by its readers and more especially the Ladis, whom the publisher is in the highest degree axious to please. It will continue to be a subsect of more than usual care to him, and to the Progravy, under whose supervision it is placed, to make that potion of the magazine allotted to Msic, more than ever deserving of the countenance of every lover of music. It has ever been and will continue to be the desire to have all pieces of Masic printed correctly and free from errors.

THE WORK IN GENERA²

Over every department an equaly rereful supervision will be strictly exercised by the Editors, and all appropriate expenditures will be liberally bestowed, as it is the design of the publisher, with the rid of his contributes and the advice of his friends to make the Ladies' Companion distinguished for the beauty and accuracy of its typography—the variety and high tone of its literary articles—he quality and value of its music-and the unequalled splendor of its

PICTORIAL EMBELLISHMENTS.

It is the determination of the publisher to use every means to maintain the superiority which the Ladies' Companion has obtained. For four years he has steadily pursue I a course of improvement, and he flatters himself that his present facilities are such as to give the Ladies' Companion eminent advantages over all other publications of its character.

From the foregoin z it will be perceived that the LADIES' COMPANION embraces every depart-LAMES' COMPANION embraces every department within the range of Belles-Letters and the Fine Arts; and no exertions or expense will be deemed too great to render the work equal to any other extant. The flattering and general testimonials of nearly every contemporary journal in the United States, and in fact, many on the other side of the Atlantic, have strongly asserted the undeniable claims of the Ladies' Companion to the support of the public generally. There no work that gives its readers such a great feturn for their subscription. THE PRIZE ARTICLES
