

The Chronicle mentions that a soldier of the 83d was carried off by the Telegraph last week, and thinks it must have been within the knowledge of the officers of the boat. We understand that the soldier secreted himself on board the boat after 9 o'clock at night, and entirely without the knowledge of the Captain.

Will the Examiner, or some other Toronto paper, give us some account of the bill which passed last session to regulate the value of gold and silver coin. If it receive the royal assent the public should be previously aware of its nature and operation, and not leave the benefit, if any, to the Banks.

TO OUR SUBSCRIBERS AND AGENTS.
 As a great number of accounts due to this Office were not paid for collector on his late visit, we have now inclosed thereto, the respective local agents, who will greatly oblige us by collecting them as they possibly can, and sending it without delay. And we earnestly beg our subscribers whose accounts are over due, to pay the agents as soon as possible. Justice to themselves as well as to us requires this. Though the sums are small separately, yet in the aggregate they form a large amount, the want of which greatly embarrasses us. The accounts are made up of the 16th of April last, the close of our second year, and we fully expect that this notice will be sufficient to produce prompt payment.

From the St. Catharines Journal.
MR. DURHAM'S REPORT.—So much ill-considered and ill-considered upon this important document, and so many foolish bolts aimed at it, that it had not been immeasurably above the reach of its opponents, it would long since have met the fate that has already befallen the greater portion of the material sent to the printer, and which has been termed. "That his Lordship's Report," in that part which relates to Upper Canada, contains some errors, is not deemed by its most ardent admirers; and, taking advantage of some of these, its vituperative maligners, writing under the painful feelings consequent upon the exposure of corruption and tyranny, have, as valiantly and unwisely, endeavored to invalidate and destroy the whole; but in this they have been most singularly unfortunate, and their failure is rendered more conspicuous, if not ridiculous, from the fact of their having attempted to grapple with those parts of it, the truth of which has been fully demonstrated, by more than twenty years of colonial administration.

Among the most prominent of these are, the "letters" of Judge Haliburton, of Nova Scotia, and the Report of the U. C. Assembly, at its last session. The former is a laboured effort, and contains much from the favourable impression we were led to entertain of the author of Somerset; the latter is said, and no doubt truly, to be the production of C. A. Hagerman, her Majesty's Attorney General. We do not notice these, for the purpose of reviewing or criticising them; for this has already been done by our hands, particularly the latter, and in a style and manner to which we make no pretension; but to record our calm and deliberate opinion of the merits of the great question now put upon its final issue.

That Lord Durham, whatever may be his other faults, is a STATESMAN, his bitterest enemies will not deny; and even allowing him only a second degree of ability, he stands above such men as C. A. Hagerman, as the latter does above the most humble subject, in point of legal acquirements; yet this is the man who, as the acknowledged leader of a clique that stands opposed to all that is just, in a dispute, liberal in sentiment, and public in reform, presumes to arraign his Lordship's Report at the bar of public opinion, and to accuse him of cowardice, while the very breath with which he pronounces it, is inhaled from an atmosphere rendered murky with the deep and bitter calumny of a ruined, degraded and insulted population.

The Assembly's Report, simply considered as the production of the Attorney General, is not worth a moment's serious consideration; it only acquires consequence from the circumstance of its having been printed at the public expense, while it was written more than the "report" of the committee, and distributed through the country, by means of the "franking" privilege; but afterwards, in an evil hour, the banding was adopted as the legitimate offspring of an almost deserted House, the last day of its session. We cannot but believe that the originator of this "report" is so satisfied, as ever to have imagined, for a moment, that his spilled effort would ever be read by the great mass of the people, with any other emotions than that of supreme contempt, by its authors, who for this and many other unexpected sins, are tearing up wrath, which one day, and that, perhaps, much sooner than they are aware of, is poured out upon their devoted heads, in a tenfold form of political vengeance, by an indignant and outraged people. This report was intended for effect, elsewhere. It was hurried through the printing office, and despatched to England, before the House had time to act upon it, and with an infamous falsehood tacked to it, that it had passed the Assembly unanimously!

But the British Government, we have no doubt, is now fully awake to all the ruin and misery that has befallen this unhappy province; but we trust that the day is dawning, in which full and retributive justice will be meted out to the guilty authors of their country's degradation. The tributes who have formed themselves into office, and are glutted with the life blood of the colony, may spit their venom upon Lord Durham's Report, until the sources of their poison become exhausted; it carries its own antidote. They may glare upon it with the eyes of a fury, and gnash with the fangs of a demon—shake their snaky hair, and lash their dragon tails; but truth, mighty and irresistible TRUTH, is its shield, and it will prevail. The fiat has gone forth, and Upper Canada will be saved. The enemies are unmasked, and their deeds exposed to the light of Heaven, the scorn of the Patriot, and the detestation of every well-wisher of his own and his country's prosperity.

But it may be asked—In what way will Upper Canada be saved, and what for? We will answer that first. It will be saved from the withering influence of Toryism—from the slavery of its Dominion—street legislation—from the blasting effects of a unioned monopolies—from agricultural and commercial ruin, and general bankruptcy—from all the train of evils induced by an irresponsible government, and the baneful domination of the family compact—from disloyalty to the Sovereign—and separation from Great Britain. It will be saved by the timely establishment of a responsible government, upon the plan recommended in Lord Durham's Report. We predict it: the event is sealed. British liberty, free and untrammelled, is the birthright of every Canadian. British legislation will rear its temple in a British justice; and British laws, enforced by a responsible Executive, will guard the sacred rights of every subject. Learning, encouraged and fostered by a paternal Government, will diffuse its sacred light, and its rays pour her lucid rays upon the human mind—Rhetoric will awaken the latent energies of the people, and British capital and enterprise will make our solitary places glad, and the wilderness to blossom as the rose. Plenty will abound, and the country will be in all our borders, and the country will be in all our borders, if the people will only be true to themselves, their Queen, and their God.

REMOVALS.—The inventors of false news have received a check by the condemnation of one of them at Montreal to fifteen days imprisonment. There are many who manufacture and circulate false and alarming news who ought to accompany him. It is curious enough to see how the business is carried on: a newspaper in some distant part has something about the conflagration of Niagara and runaways on the American frontier, is told something by a stranger in the streets, and immediately shouts out murder, assassination, incendiarism, and "forty thousand men" from Michigan to Maine! Another, at some distance, repeats the story with additions. The farther off the more formidable the "news" become; letter writers set to work, the newspaper chorus becomes general, and the talkers re-echo the tidings in a thousand shapes, maintaining the truth of the whole, as founded on the general accordance of the newspapers, and the old saying, "what every body says must be true." Persons out of the Province conclude, that of two things one is likely to be the case; either there is actual danger of new attacks, or the loyal portion of the inhabitants have so little confidence in themselves and the Government, that they are likely to fall an easy prey to new attacks and rebellious attempts.

It is possible, however, that many of these alarms are got up and spread from interested motives. John Bull's money is very tempting, he is very generous, and not always hesitating to dole out the newspaper, of course, latour in their vocation. Popular excitement is their life. It gives circulation to their papers, and they expect, at least, that they should receive it. They are injurious to the public, and they are likely to excite an interest among their readers and be greedily devoured by them.

We submit, however, whether the character and tranquillity of a country, ought to be altogether sacrificed to the interests of the newspapers, or others who expect advantage from spreading false news; there is no doubt, but the alarms which they occasion tend to breed disturbances; to bring about the evils against which they affect to put us on our guard. They create a belief of danger among all parties, excite passion and prejudice, produce mutual provocations and insults, till, at last, a spark sets the whole on fire.

These alarming reports do no good whatsoever, unless it be to the newspapers, and some who get good pay for little service. They are insulting to the public authority; for they suppose that there may be real danger and those who are duty to be formed of it, if it exists, and prepared to ward it off, are neglectful of their duty, sleeping on their posts, and requiring the watchfulness of the newspapers, and requiring them to do their duty for the character of the country, and particularly to the loyal inhabitants who have proved themselves ever ready, at the call of lawful authority, to leave their peaceful and industrious pursuits to perform their duty to the Government of the country, their families and themselves, and can ill afford, in addition to their other sacrifices, those which are occasioned by unnecessary alarms, destruction of confidence and useful enterprise.—(Quebec Gazette)

REVIEW OF THE MONTREAL MARKETS FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY EVENING 21st JUNE, 1839.
ASHES.—Have advanced 6d. per cwt. since our last: in consequence of a brisk demand for Fine Middlings, and sales have been effected at 32s. 6d. cash, and 33s. 9d. cash and on time. All the coarse descriptions are in request, and may be quoted as follows:—Coarse Middlings, 31s. 3d. to 32s. 6d., and Pollards, 27s. 6d. to 31s. per barrel.

PROVISIONS.—Are not much in demand with the exception of Pork which is in request, owing to Government having purchased largely this week both here and at Quebec, at which latter place about 2000 barrels Hamburg Prime Mess sold at $15. In Beef we have no transactions to note. Butter has been selling in the market at 9d. to 9d. for salt, and 9d. to 10d. for fresh.

The general business in Groceries, Weaves, SERRIES, and DRY GOODS continues good, without any variation in prices.

EXCHANGE.—The Montreal Bank is drawing on London at 10 per cent. premium, and on New York at 1 per cent. premium. The money market in New York has been sadly depressed, the rates of discount on good paper varying from 12 to 15 per annum. The Stock Market there has been very inactive, and in several instances the prices have declined, the necessary consequence of calling in Stock Loans. Various Loan and Saving institutions in the States have become defunct, having turned out so many Bank Bubbles, which have involved many people in ruin.

The notes of the Bank of Upper Canada are at a discount here from 14 to 2-1/2 per cent. and a large amount of them cannot be got rid of even at that rate.
