At the foot of the skirt there are three bias rumes about a finger wide, put on very scant and with a cord at the top. The body of the dress is perfectly plain, cut square neck and without sleeves. A pleating of lace is set in the neck and set around the bottom, above which are tucks that reach nearly to the waist line. The lace waist is out without darts or back forms and gathered into a belt and finished the arm and finished with a fall of lace and bows of white morre ribbon. A bow of the same is set at the side of the throat. A wide moire such is tied in a large bow at the back, fastened to a belt also of moire ribbon. Long white hid gloves will be worn, and white books with white silk stockings. The hand bouquet will be of English violets and lilies of the valley.
