Why the Governor of the Mauritius was Withdrawn - A Disagreeable Incident.

A London cable says: The suspension of Sir John Hennessy, Governor of the Mauritius, has caused a sensation in diplomatic circles, though it is generally admitted that his salary is justly justified in deflecting his mind to a more severe discharge by the conduct of the Governor.

This story being true, in order not to wound the susceptibilities of one now living, I suppress proper names as well as a few of the least important details.

As to the improbability, that is a matter of no importance, because it is simply a question of possibility, I leave that to be discussed by the incredulous, who are so wise when they know nothing about a matter.

mercifully preserved the English ladies by means of a dream, but others had received no such warning, and had suffered in different ways.

Mme. de Baron had lost her necklace of pearls, Mlle. de Contesse her mourning countess, and Mlle. de la Roche her diamond bracelet, etc., etc.

A South London despatch says: Miss Alice Walker, aged 17, has not opened her eyes since December 21st. She is conscious at times and then knows those who are about her.

An Inmate Hermit Living in a Tree.

A New Haven, Conn., despatch says: Dr. C. B. Adams, agent of the Connecticut Humane Society, has been investigating the very familiar case of Isaac Pardee, of East Haven, who, after being confined in the prison for some time, was found in a tree in that town.

An Extended Experience.

Writes a well known chemist, permits me to say that Putnam's Painless Corn Extract never fails. It makes no sore spots in the flesh and consequently is painless.

HEBERKIM, 21.

DEAR SIR: I thought you would be interested in the Irish people's struggle. Wherefore thought I would write you a line.
