OUR RAILEOAD.

Away down the railroad track we'll go
And look for the engine long.
And when we have found the old steam horse We will sing this joyous song : Oh! it's coming.
It's almost here,
This railroad will be running,
'Bout the close of the year.

We will mount to the top of the tallest trees,
And strain the eye for the coming train,
And at the first glimpse of the joyful sight,
Our tears will fall like rain. Oh! it's coming, &c.

We will deck our village with bunting bright,
And put on all our holiday wear
On the day that the first through train is run,
And sing with a will, though the navvie Oh! it's coming &c. And we'll toast the magnates, every one— Saunders and Borney and Mooney the welkin shall ring in our excess of joy Though they should think us looney.
