Before this the young man came into possession of a watch and chain and two gold rings belonging to the young woman, who after their first meeting had become deeply enamored of him. The following evening, which was Saturday, Sadie met Ida Simmons about 9 o'clock and the two proceeded to the boat house, but were unable to find the brothers. When they reached the Walker House on their return they met a third young man, a friend of the two who owned the boat house.
