LAKE STREET.

MONDAY, Nov. 19.—On Saturday evening, 10th inst., three persons from Lake Street were on their way home from Athens, all in one rig.

They turned in at Moggison's Corner to take a short cut over to Lake Street. Tanglewag said to the Tinker, "turn up this way;" but the "Horse Jockey" said, "No! I am going this way," and turned the horse's head up hill, but in his haste to see his own way he pulled the wrong line and over went the buggy, and its three occupants rolled over and over to the bottom of the hill, closely followed by the old mare and carriage. The horse jockey struck out for a light in the distance (which as usual proved to be in the wrong direction), closely followed by the tinker, who managed to crawl onto the horse's back.

The safe they wandered around through the valley until nearly day light. The tanglewag was spilled out when the carriage rolled over and was quietly swallowed up by the hill, closely followed by the old mare and carriage. The horse jockey struck out for a light in the distance (which as usual proved to be in the wrong direction), closely followed by the tinker, who managed to crawl onto the horse's back.

The customs and mode of life among the Islanders, in some respects is quite as foreign to mainland folks as life in Italy. Boats are solely employed to make calls for visiting, for business and pleasure, and the purposes that a horse and buggy are employed for on the mainland, and the term "boat livery" has a meaning quite unknown to us. There is a good road running in the centre from end to end of the island. The production of Grenadier is great.

On Saturday, in snow storm, we called to Peole's Resort, which has done a splendid business this season, as it will merit.

I noticed on leaving the mouth of the creek at Larne's old mills an old boat stranded on the rocks in a way to invite sympathy, and as the eye follows the curve to the remains of the massive old dam in ruin, the mind reverts to The Mill on the Flax. The Broken Wheel, a dozen other sad and pathetic reminiscences streep down the vista of the past—the mill—the brain—the genius—that formed so much on this beautiful earth which now lies in desolation and ruin, must live in some other grand sphere of love, joy and beauty.

GLEN BUELL.

SATURDAY, Nov. 17.—The famous sportsman and horse trader of Mount Pleasant, while returning from Brockville one day last week, was overtaken by a serious mishap, had it not been for the admirable ingenuity of one of our leading citizens, might have resulted in the untimely demise of his renowned horse Guno. Absorbed as he was in meditating on the profits of the day's speculation he did not notice the decreasing speed of his carriage and when about opposite our village blacksmith shop to his surprise and consternation the vehicle ceased to move.

Upon a thorough examination of Guno, which stood before him limp as a rag, he came to the conclusion that for want of sufficient nutritious nourishment the animal had become fatigued and discouraged, and as the Glen is a beautiful resting place it had decided to stay. Promises of a liberal quantity of sawdust, water and even tooth-picks, when he reached his destination did not seem to encourage him in the least. Fearing that his friends would be uneasy about his absence (he was due at the Mount at 11:45 p.m.) the sportsman decided to reach home at all hazards. As the best advice and assistance was necessary to accomplish this, he lost no time in interviewing the ex-manager of the Gallean Gas Co. who, like all far-seeing men, has come to the conclusion that electricity will be the popular illuminant of the next century and that gas don't pay.

The ever obliging ex-manager gladly consented to do what he could for the sportsman's Guno, and as of late he has devoted his time and attention to horse-training, no better help could be secured. The generous voice of the ex-manager commanding Guno in thundering tones to advance failed to produce the desired effect. His raving and his vigorous application of this for about forty minutes, during which about half a mile was covered, brought back some of Guno's old-time ambition and the sportsman was sent on his way rejoicing. The ex-manager returned home well satisfied with his ability as a horse-trainer. Parties wishing to subside unmanageable horses should do no better than to call on the ex-manager as he is generally able to quell at a glance the most vicious animals.

Grenadier is five and a half miles long and one of it is half a mile wide. At one point it is nearly one and a half miles wide. The bays, inlets and points are so numerous that the coast line may be twenty-five miles long. It includes over 1000 acres. There are 12 farms, 12 fine orchards with good fruit, and the buildings will compare well with good localities on the main land. The land is fertile, adapted to gardening, and the water is excellent. The population is 62—28 on the school roll—an average attendance of 14; school open all the year. Religious services in the school house every two weeks by the well known Rev. Mr. Short, who also officiates on Larne, Well, and Grindstone Islands; also sometimes at Rockport. He is conveyed to his appointments in a very nice little steam yacht, which will carry about 20 of his friends. He also uses a wheel to go inland.

We may suppose bees could do well on the islands. But Mr. Henry Hunt's large apiary on Larne Island gives a good account of itself. Mr. Poole's bees here struck a bonanza on the 7th of June when the Ocean collided with the coal barge Kent. Part of the Ocean's cargo was granulated sugar. As soon as they began raising and drying it, the detective bees soon raided the sunken ship. They marshalled a host without delay, and seized the first to the dismay of the sailors. The bees had all they wanted and there is enough left to supply them well next spring. Four years ago a swarm of bees came to him, probably from New York. He tried to inform himself on bee culture and the advice he has received from various parties is truly amusing. He is satisfied that he can save enough alkali oliver and buckwheat to make the bees pay. Eight or ten farmers have told him this season that all things considered, buckwheat paid them as well as any crop, aside from bees. Not all, but some farmers, might, if they gave it thought, help themselves to a good crop of buckwheat or hay and also greatly help their bees. Mr. Poole proposes to thus keep his bees at home and so prevent their crossing the water.

Boats are solely employed to make calls for visiting, for business and pleasure, and the purposes that a horse and buggy are employed for on the mainland, and the term "boat livery" has a meaning quite unknown to us. W. S. HOCOS.

The county council meet in Brockville to-day.

A Toronto News reporter speaks of Guy Curtis as "Queen's broadly Teutonic featured captain."

Every lady who wears a mantle should see the German-made jackets at $2.50, $5.00, $6.00 and $7.50 at G. W. Beach's.

According to the constitutional amendments passed by New York the race track must go. It is condemned and all the gambling and immorality that are contingent upon it.

"Magic Stone" Soap is something new. It will clean paints, oilcloths, marble, and will polish brass, copper, tin and all metallic surfaces—a household necessity. Be sure and get a cake. For sale at Mott & Robson's.

Messrs. Ed Curry and Jim Cavanagh have completed arrangements for a big shooting match for turkeys, to be held at Charleston on Tuesday, Nov. 27th, commencing at 1 p.m. The range for shot guns (to be not larger than 12 gauge) will be 16 rods; for rifles, 35 rods; a nine inch ring to be the target.

An entertainment under the auspices of the High School Literary Society will be held on Nov. 30th. The high school students possess considerable musical and literary talent of first-class quality and are capable of presenting a very enjoyable program. It is probable that a debate on an interesting subject will be a feature of the evening.

Mr. A. N. Sherman has been engaged during the past month in re-arranging the furniture and boiler at the Elbe Mills to a more convenient position under the main building. The Mills have been put in thorough repair throughout and are now ready for business. Mr. D. C. Dillabaugh, the new proprietor of the Mills, is a man of push, and the old-time reputation of the Mills is likely to be regained. Farmers, give him a call.

In the old post office building a boot and shoe store has been opened under the management of Mr. Jas. Patterson. A full line of footwear is carried and prudent purchasers will do well to see these goods and learn the prices before investing their money. Ordered work and repairing will receive prompt attention from Mr. Patterson, who is a skilled workman of experience. The building has been fitted up inside and painted outside and now presents an attractive appearance.

The entertainment given by the W. C. T. U. in the Presbyterian church last Friday evening was a very pleasant affair. The musical part of the program was excellent, including the rendering of "The Old Canoe," by a quartette. The essays on the subject of "The effect of intemperance on the home" were read by the writers (with one exception) and the award of the committee appointed to judge them was then given, when it was found that Mr. M. S. Sly had won the first prize and Miss Miriam Greene the second.

Many persons are under the impression that the cabinet and undertaking business carried on by T. G. Stevens & Bro., in Athens, was closed. Such, we are glad to announce, is not the case. The business is being carried on as formerly, by Theo. G. Stevens, who has prepared to offer great reductions for anything in the line of cabinet work or undertaking goods. The stock is large and well selected and persons in search of bargains can secure them by calling at the shop on Victoria street. Persons owing the late firm can effect a settlement with Theo. G. Stevens much more readily than by allowing them to go through the regular process of winding up the estate.

Capt. Beardsell, is now in command of the local corps of the Salvation Army. He is an officer of experience, having traveled extensively through western Ontario, and is doing his best to establish a strong corps in this village. Recently those in attendance at the Army meetings have been greatly annoyed and disturbed by a number of hoodlums who gathered in the evening to create mischief and make themselves in a very creditable manner. In the past the Army has done good in Athens and the authorities should now endeavor to see that the organization needed protection from the rowdy element that is apparently strongly disposed to gain the ascendancy. The law provides for the infliction of a very severe penalty on those guilty of disturbing a place of worship and these unruly youths would do well to remember this.

Dr. Creighton, of Delta, sued the township of Rear of Leeds and Lansdowne for damages sustained to his buggy, horse and medicine chest. The doctor was driving home from Lyndhurst one dark night when the buggy was upset by a pile of stones and gravel left in the middle of the road unguarded by a fence or without a light hung up to warn people of it. The doctor secured a verdict for $30 and costs.

A Merry Gathering. On Friday night a party consisting of the modistes and a few other young people assembled at the home of Miss Jennie Percival, Plum Hollow, and passed some very pleasant hours in games and social intercourse. About midnight refreshments a varied and elaborate character were served and were done ample justice to by the young people. During the evening excellent music was rendered by some of the young ladies and solos were well rendered by Misses Percival, Wing and Smith and Mr. Bullis. In the few small hours the party broke up and the merry gathering, manifestly thanking their kind host and hostess for the very pleasant evening they had enjoyed.

Acting on a Doubtful Substratum. There is a man in the Ottawa valley who is bitterly lamenting that he owes his trust in a fortune teller. He lost a purse containing $78 and went to a fortune teller in Plum Hollow to find out where it was. She told him, as the story goes, that a Jew peddler who passed his place a few days before had taken it, and so he tracked the peddler the first time he saw him passing on the road. He mailed him around in the road, a good deal demanding his money until the poor Jew peddler was almost beside him self with fright. He finally got away from his assailant and when he got to Ottawa news were out, an information program has been prepared. Tickets, 25c, 50c, 1.00.

Heavy Fire in Windsor. WINDSOR, Man., Nov. 17.—Windsor had a serious visitation, no less than five alarms having been turned in for different fires. The Western Canada Bank on the corner of Main street and Portage avenue, was completely gutted, and the stores immediately adjacent by High Street, by Mitchell's, drugists, were burned out. Loss $50,000. The Grand Union hotel on Princess street was swept out of existence by a fire which started in a house adjoining. The fire crossed the street and burned up the large warehouse of Strick, Anderson & Co., filled with a valuable stock. The total loss in this connection will exceed $100,000. This fire is supposed to have been started by an incendiary as it occurred in a mysterious way while the fire brigade and the firemen of the fire brigade enabled the flames to do their work.

BIG ROBBERY IN MONTREAL.

Three Men: Big Hunt from the Theatre Royal.

MONTREAL, Nov. 18.—When the employees of the Theatre Royal went to work on Saturday morning they were surprised to find that one of the windows on the south side of the building was open. Upon examination it was ascertained that both the outside and inside screen windows had been forcibly removed. They at once proceeded to examination and found the door of the safe in the office open, the manager, was on the spot and a thorough investigation was made.

The safe had been drilled in two places, on top and bottom, and a communication made in the front. There were no traces of dynamite, but there was some plaster of paris on the safe. The bit had been broken and the hole at the remaining portion of it was found on the floor. It is yet unknown how the safe was opened.

"The combination works well," said Mr. Rhoad, "and I am unable to explain how they managed. The burglars were evidently experts. There was some railway stock in the safe, but Mr. Sparrow is about I cannot say how much. It was there or what companies it was. Both bonds and stocks have been taken up of yesterday's receipts. A lot of other papers were not touched nor were a number of operations in the drawers in the safe which were found open."

The burglars, as soon as they had entered the theatre proper, went to the office and rifled where they they forced open the door of the safe which they forced open. It is thought the amount of the theft will reach $50,000.

No clue has yet been obtained as to the identity of the burglars. The worst of the police is a fine lot of experienced American sharpshooters. A gang of American burglars and pickpockets are known to be conducting operations in the city at present.

A Murderous Burglar Near Belleville. BELLEVILLE, Nov. 19.—On Saturday Mrs. Adam Saunders, a widow, who lives on the west end of Sydney, about three miles from the city, was awakened by a noise in her bedroom. Sitting up in bed she saw a dark man who carried a lantern. He once drew a small revolver and fired at her. The bullet struck her in the left breast, and she fell on the floor. She called for help, and a neighbor, who was passing, replied that he had got all she had, namely $15 in a purse. The ruffian fired again, the bullet penetrating her left ear. He then left the house, after making threats of further violence. The wounded woman then escaped to a neighbor's across the street. She had her injuries attended to by Dr. Crosby, and is now recovering. The wounds are not so bad as they first appeared, as the pistol was of 22-calibre and used only the short cartridges. No clue has been found as to the identity of the burglar.

Three Fishermen Lost. CANO, N. S., Nov. 19.—On Friday afternoon, while a strong breeze was blowing, John Hughes, Walter Hadley and Charles Simpson went out in a small boat to haul up their netting off Fox Island. They were observed from the shore at work on the morning, but their boat disappeared before reaching the net. Search parties went out all Friday night, and it was not until some boys which had been in the boats were picked up late yesterday that they were finally located. It is supposed that the boat must have filled and gone down with its occupants between the islands in Toronto Harbour. The bodies of a widow and three children. The other were unharmed.

Escaped From Penitentiary. HAMILTON, Nov. 19.—Albert Rabbits, a colored boy with a bad record, who was sentenced from Hamilton to the Penitentiary reformatory, escaped from that institution the other day and made his way to Hamilton on foot. He arrived in Hamilton at daybreak on Saturday with nothing on him but a shirt and pair of drawers, having discarded the striped clothing for fear of detection. He got some clothing from friends here and left again for Hamilton before the authorities could find him.

A Dorchester Convict Captured. DORCHESTER, N. B., Nov. 19.—One of three convicts that escaped Friday was captured at Beech Hill, 20 miles from here. Horne, the one captured, had left his two companions hiding in the woods with him to a house to procure food. While Horne was in the house the men on hunt happened along, and after a hard tussle overpowered the man and brought him back to penitentiary. The others have been located, and guards were sent to the place. Their capture is only a question of a few hours.

The Contest in London. LONDON, Nov. 19.—The contesting political parties held their final mass meeting on Saturday night. Municipal interests are playing a considerable part in the campaign, and feeling generally runs high. While Mr. Meredith held the seat the Liberals were a little indifferent in regard to legislative questions, but now everything has changed and a bitter fight is in progress in which both parties are doing their very utmost to win, believing that the result will be a change of government.

China Purchases a C. P. R. Boat. VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 19.—The last issue of Fair Play, the noted English shipping authority, states that the steamer Prince Rupert, built at Dunham by Messrs. Denny & Company for the Canadian Pacific Railway to ply between this port and Victoria, has been sold to the Chinese government to act as a transport ship.

Suicided With Carbolic Acid. NORTH BAY, Nov. 19.—McMillan, late car checker here, took carbolic acid in his hands and died in a matter of minutes. He had been out of employment for some time, and it is thought this was the cause of the rash act.

Sudden Death in Barrie. BARRIE, Nov. 19.—Peter Dayman, miller, of this town, died while at work in his mill on Saturday about 4 p.m. Cause of death was heart disease.

A Trainsman Killed. CHATHAM, Nov. 19.—Yesterday James Brady, a trainsman on a C. P. R. freight train, fell between the cars near this station and was instantly killed by the wheels passing over his body. He was 35 years of age and unmarried.

The High Commission at Dresden. DRESDEN, Nov. 18.—Sir Charles Tupper, Canadian High Commissioner, who is here with the intention of delivering a lecture on the subject of the resources and development of the Dominion of Canada, was waited upon by a deputation of farmers yesterday. In reply to their questions, Sir Charles made no difference how clearly it might be proved that contagious pleuro-pneumonia did exist among cattle in Canada it was a foreign conclusion that the British Government would exclude Canadian cattle. This prohibition, he said, was chiefly due to the connection of the Western Canada, formerly president of the Board of Agriculture, with the agricultural society. Resolutions were passed declaring that an agitation against the proposed exclusion of the Government in excluding Canadian cattle would continue unabated.

Heavy Fire in Windsor. WINDSOR, Man., Nov. 17.—Windsor had a serious visitation, no less than five alarms having been turned in for different fires. The Western Canada Bank on the corner of Main street and Portage avenue, was completely gutted, and the stores immediately adjacent by High Street, by Mitchell's, drugists, were burned out. Loss $50,000. The Grand Union hotel on Princess street was swept out of existence by a fire which started in a house adjoining.
