

I guess everything really important that happened this past month at Rideau has passed me by. There have been history trips to Ottawa, science trips to Toronto, law trips to Kingston, basketball games, boy's basketball tryouts, and anything else you can think of. I haven't really been paying attention though. Instead I've been thinking about University, and College. There have been many College, and University presentations at our school. These people tell the students interested in College or University what it's like, and the programs offered. A lot of the information surprised me, but I hope it has prepared me to stay clear of schools that con their applicants with phony statistics. Now that that's off my mind, let's see what Rideau District High has been up to.

Our Senior girl's basketball team won L.G.S.S.A.A. Once again the boy's basketball teams are getting prepared for a new season. I wonder, will Rideau be able to keep its O.F.S.S.A.A. title for a second straight year? I guess we'll have to wait and see.

A new program increasingly underway is to preserve the earth. Recycling bins are in every classroom, and are constantly being used by the students, and staff. I'm sure this new and unique club will have a daily effect on us, making us realize if we don't care for what we've got, we won't be able to share it with future generations.

On November 16, a science and physics class went to Toronto. While there for the day, the two classes visited the Planetarium, and Royal Winter Fair. Then on November 19, the grade 12 law class went to Kingston. On the agenda were: the Prison For Women, the Kingston Penitentiary, and the other local prisons. Also, Jim Jordan visited our grade nine history classes last week. That's really all that I can remember at the moment. Soon we'll be preparing for the Christmas holidays, and after that, exams, but who wants to hear about those yet? Until the time comes, I'll try to pay more attention to the extracurricular activities keeping everyone so busy.
