A SUMMER TRIBUTE TO DOLORES WING

July 13, 1989

A year ago today, she just went away;
So many things undone,
So many songs unsung.

Remember me when I am gone,
In primrose red at break of dawn!

The hot, dusty soil is thirsty again;
I'll come to you soothingly in afternoon rain!

A sleepy sun settles down to rest;
Look toward the horizon,
I colour the west!

At twilight freshened with evening dew,
A whippoorwill calls;
I'm right there with you!

The crickets awaken,
And in harmony ring;
I'm conducting their chorus,
How beautifully they sing!

A full moon rises, rich and bright;
I'm flooding the cornfields with shadows of white!

On pussy-cat paws a fog creeps around;
It's quiet and still, dark and calm;
My promise to you:
I'll be back in the dawn!

What else would she say
In her old, familiar way?

With index finger raised in the air:
"I'll always, always, always be there!"

But if to remember, is to be sad;
Then forget, forget, forget and be glad!"
