

BOATING SAFETY

DO

- Slow down when making sharp turns and in bad weather.
- Assist any boat in distress. The vertical circular waving motion of a piece of light-coloured material or of a light by night is a distinctive distress signal. Attention is also drawn to the arm signal as shown in Standard Marine Distress Signals on page 1.
- Slow down when passing dredges or water where divers may be working.
- Keep the bilges of the boat clean and free of oil, gasoline and rags. Vent any enclosed areas into the open air.

DON'T

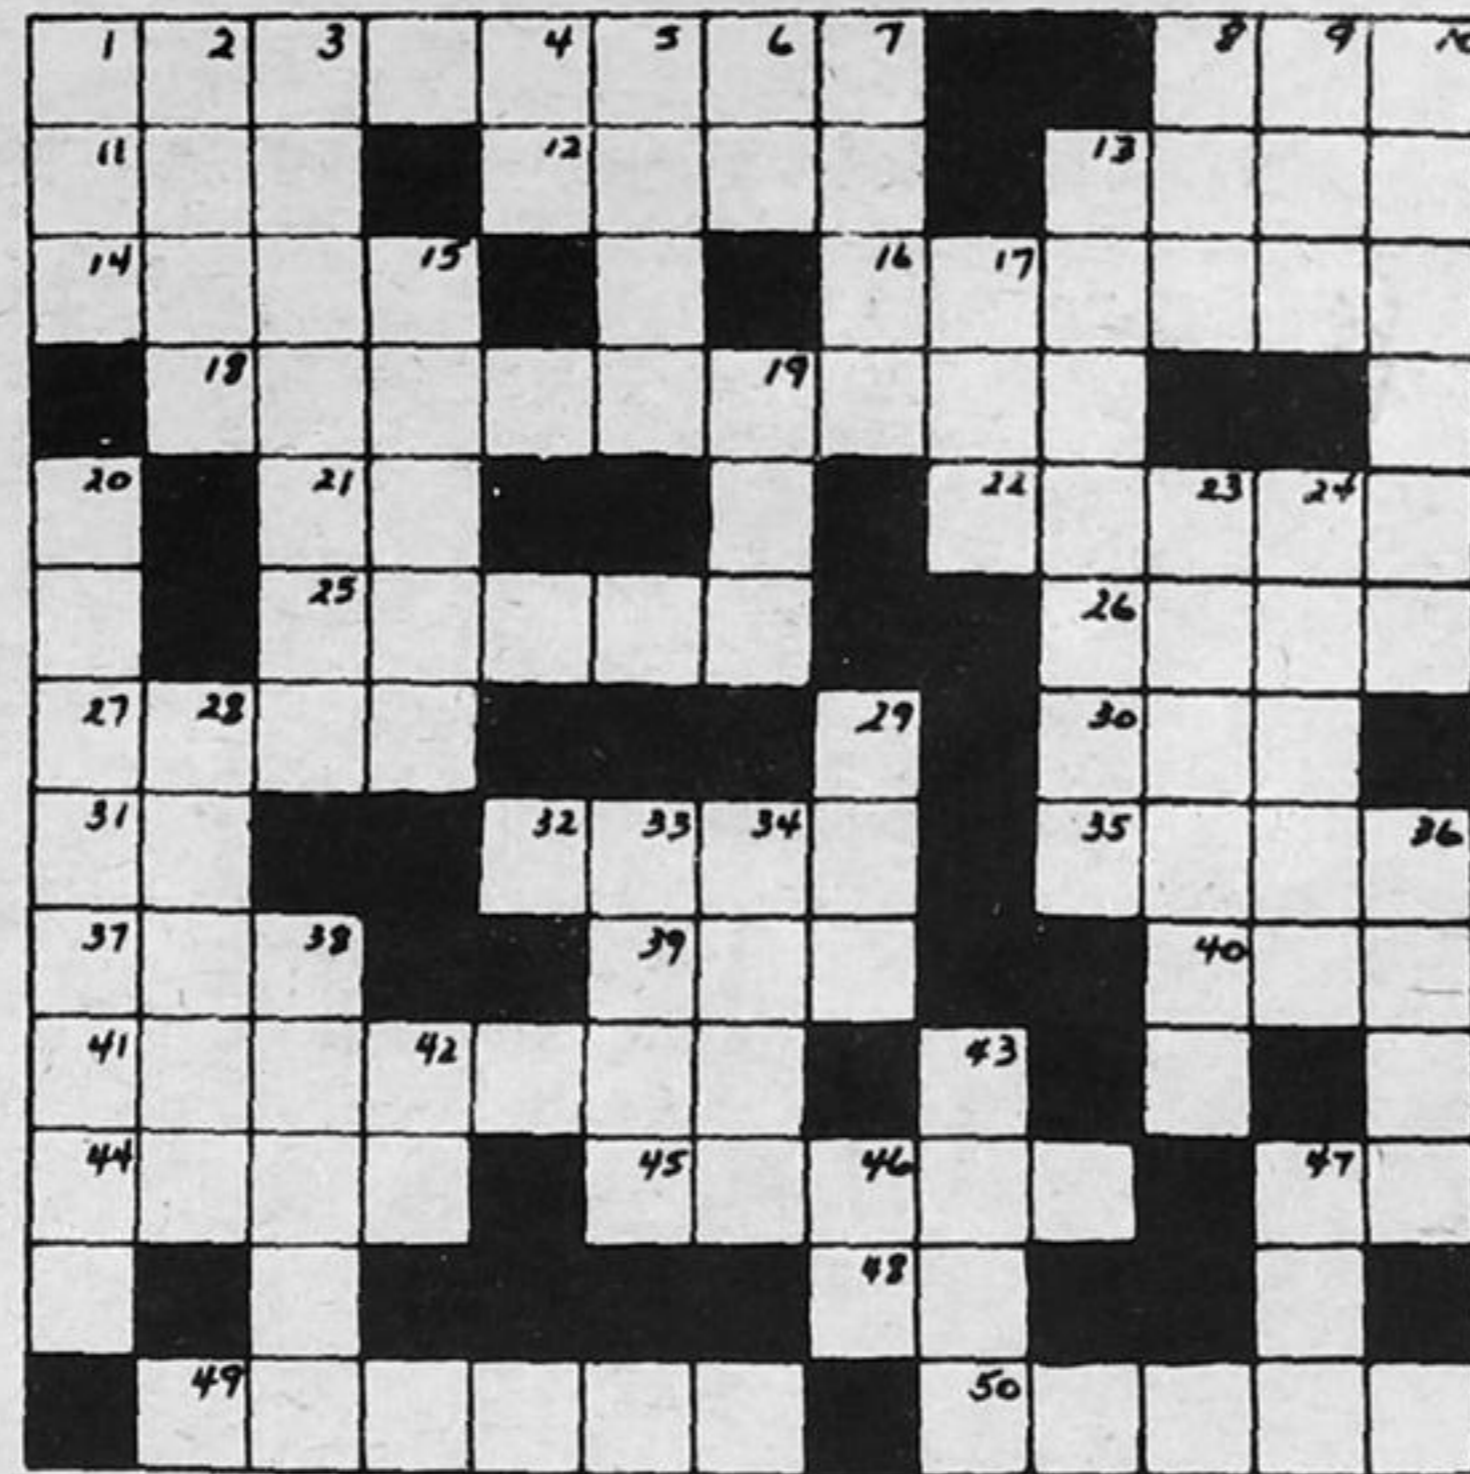

- Stand up or change seats in a small boat, particularly when it is fully loaded. If it's necessary to move, crouch low and keep the weight on the boat's centreline, holding on to both gunwales.
- Stand up when starting an out-board motor.
- Operate near swimmers.
- Mix liquor and boating.
- Use a leaky or poorly-built boat.

DON'T

- Wait until the last minute to signify your intentions of obeying the Rules of the Road.
- Anchor close to other boats.
- Cruise at high speed in or near an anchorage.
- Hold impromptu races with other boats, because rowboats, canoes and other small craft are endangered by the wash.
- Attempt to swim ashore if your boat is capsized or is swamped; hang on to the boat until you are picked up.
- Be a show-off.
- Buzz bathing beaches; swimmers are hard to see in the water.
- Carry out-dated charts and related publications in your boat.
- Create an excessive wake. This can endanger others in your vicinity and also cause bank erosion and property damage.
- Cruise fast enough to create a dangerous swell when near small boats.
- Leave your tiller or steering wheel unattended when under way, especially in harbours, anchorages or narrow channels.
- Throw garbage overboard.
- Sound your horn or use the spotlight unnecessarily.

*Yesterday has passed forever beyond our control,
We cannot undo a single act we performed;
We cannot erase a single word we said,
Yesterday is gone.
Tomorrow is also beyond our immediate control,
Tomorrow the sun will rise, either in splendor, or behind a mask of clouds, - but it will rise,
Until it does, we have no stake in tomorrow, for it is yet unborn,
This leaves only one day - today.
Any man can fight the battles of just one day,
It is only when you and I add the burdens of those two eternities - yesterday and tomorrow - that we breakdown.
Let us, therefore, live but one day at a time.*
