Appliances can up your energy bill

Do you really need that electric can opener, carving knife or toothbrush? Is it worthwhile to worry about ways of cutting the energy consumed by your stove or refrigerator?

To help you decide, check the following chart, prepared by Ontario Hydro on the energy consumed by common household appliances.

The kilowatt hours referred to in the chart mean 1,000 watts of electricity used for an hour or the electricity used by one 100-watt light bulb in 10 hours of operation.

The cost of each kilowatt hour varies, depending on where you live and how much energy you use every month.

The Toronto Hydro Electric System charges 7.11 cents for each of the first 50 kilowatt hours you use each month, 3.56 cents for the next 200, and 2.84 cents for the remaining electricity.

Typical householders in the city of Toronto pay an average of 3.6 cents per kilowatt hour for all the electricity they use.

ARCH OSTROM for DEPUTY REEVE

To the electors of the Municipality of Bastard and Burgess.

Time will not permit me to visit each and every one of you before the election.

I have served on council for eight years as a councilman and would now like your vote for deputy reeve.
