JOS. H. HADGICK, EDITOR.

FRIDAY MORNING, OCT. 29, 1875.

We learn on good authority that the Returning Officers have received instructions to use the rolls of 1874 at the polling places next Tuesday.

THE CANDIDATES.

It would be sheer presumption, on the part of the Free Press to seek to dictate to the electors of Halton the way they should vote. But while the editor has his own private political opinions and preferences, he can very well afford to discuss the matter without partisan prejudice. It is true, our personal acquaintance with the two aspirants for Legislative honors is very limited, still we have seen and heard enough of both to enable us to judge something of the merits and demerits of each. So far as we can learn, by diligent inquiry, both the gentlemen have a good personal record; they are old residents of this county; have held similar business and official relations, and as representative men, are well known and held in high esteem. Mr. Lyon has the advantage of being younger, and presumably more vigorous, while his opponent has the appearance of being considerably beyond the meridian of life, and of having some time since passed the allotted span of three score years and ten.

A man of Col. Clay's advanced years can hardly be expected to retain his executive faculties for any great length of time; and, if he were elected, it is scarcely probable that in the ordinary course of human events he could remain long enough in the House to gain that experience in Legislative affairs that would be likely to command a reasonable degree of influence; and without influence and vigorous mental activity, a representative becomes a mere voting machine, whose opinions and expressions carry but little weight. Col. Clay, we believe, has been, and no doubt is yet, a man of considerable executive ability, but it strikes us that his age has gone by, that his head has been frosted with too many winters, and that his wonted vigor is too far on the wane to render him as desirable a representative as we should be inclined to seek. This is our own view merely, but as he has been chosen by the responsible delegates of his political party who have no doubt have an abiding faith in his abilities, we have no right to urge these objections except as the passing remarks of a comparative stranger.

Mr. Lyon, on the other hand, is in the prime of vigorous manhood; a reflecting, active, solid-looking man of business, apparently capable of exerting a good deal of influence. He has been for many years a leading merchant and representative man in Milton, and is, naturally, thoroughly conversant with the local interests of the County. His exertions in behalf of the Credit Valley Railway, and of the Hamilton and North Western Railway, will no doubt have the tendency of raising his majority in some sections of the County where the railway is opposed to being aided with a heavy railway debt, without prospect of receiving any benefit therefrom; still, we fancy most people will take a more sensible view of the matter and see that Mr. Lyon was then working in what he believed to be the best interests of the whole community. As a representative man, it is not likely that he could stand idly by, and see the promoters of a great public work struggling to secure the requisite bonuses, without lending them his active assistance. And now that the work has not progressed as anticipated, it is scarcely fair that Mr. Lyon should be made to shoulder the blame for the shortcomings of the Railway Company.

MR. LYON'S MEETING.

There was a large attendance at Mr. Lyon's meeting last night. Excellent speeches were made by W. D. Lyon and W. Clay, the opposing candidates, and by Thomas Oliver, M. P., and D. D. Hay, M. P. P., on behalf of the Reform candidate. The chair was occupied by Mr. John Speight. The meeting was conducted very orderly and quietly.

The Globe's cable despatch from London on Tuesday says:—"The Canadian loan of two millions and a half sterling offered last week has been subscribed for many times over. It is expected that no allotment will be made under ninety-eight pounds fifteen shillings, the par being 100, and the rate of interest four per cent."

The latest and official news about Gibraltar is that he is to be buried on the 24th November next, having died on that day six years ago. Canadian Institute members have chosen the anniversary of his death as a fitting time, believing that they will be successful this time, having already brought his remains to the gates of the Roman Catholic Cemetery on two occasions and were refused an entrance.

An Exciting Drive.

The Spectator contains a highly sensational tale of a farmer in that vicinity named William Orr, who had gone to Wellington Square with a load of grain, which he disposed of. With the proceeds he invested rather extensively in shares, and when in a high state of speculation started for home. Unfortunately he had a spirited span of horses, and a very spry driver, and his horse, which was half filled with straw, he started off at a merry pace, and after going a short distance pulled up the horses and proceeded to fight his wife. There was no back to the wagon seat, and while engaged in holding his match and pipe, his horses gave a jerk which caused Orr to lose his balance and fall backwards into the straw with the lighted match in his hand. Springing upwards, with an oath, he caught his wife and laid it vigorously over her back, his spirit d. steels, causing them to dash away at a furious gallop. At the same time the match had ignited the straw, and the next moment the wagon was enveloped in a sheet of roaring flames. Thus they dashed on till they came to the village of Nelson. By this time the whole wagon was a mass of flames, and the tails were completely buried in the flowers. In turning a corner in the village the remnant of the wagon was upset, scattering the burning frame and the driver all over the road. The poor horses staggered about a short distance, and then sank into a show, presenting a pitiable picture. They were covered with foam and cinders, their eyes were starting, their flanks trembled with fear and exhaustion, while their tails were denuded of every particle of hair. Orr was carried into Smith's tavern, where it was found that his clothes had been burned completely off him, but strange to say he escaped without any serious injuries.

A despatch from Washington announced that President Grant has determined to remove all the Federal officers in Utah who hold to the Mormon faith, whether they are polygamists or not.

of opposing candidates is not a delightful task, at the best; but especially is it difficult where there are so few flaws to pick, and so little fault to find, on either side, as in this case. Both candidates have been members of the municipal councils in which they reside, and of the county councils, and they appear to be singularly free from any glaring misdeeds. Each has a certain number of personal friends who will doubtless give him their vote irrespective of party distinction; but we judge that the election generally may be expected to be a strictly party one. The canvass is apparently being conducted very quietly, and that far we have seen but little enthusiasm on either side. A few days more, however, will settle the matter. Every elector should endeavor to be at the polls next Tuesday, and exercise his franchise in behalf of the man of his choice.
