

CHRISTIE, HENDERSON & CO.,

GLASGOW HOUSE, ACTON,

While thanking their numerous customers for their very liberal patronage during the past season, beg to intimate that they are again fully equipped for the Fall and Winter campaign, having laid in one of the largest, cheapest, and most choice stocks of

GENERAL DRY GOODS, MILLINERY, MANTLES, TWEEDS, FLANNELS, HOSIERY, SHIRTS, DRAWERS, HATS, CAPS, ETC.
ever imported into this county by any one house, and at prices below anything ever known in the history of the Dry Goods trade. Their object is to suit every one in quantity, quality and price, and cordially invite the fullest inspection of their goods and prices. Their stock of BOOTS AND SHOES in Men's, Women's and Children's wear, for quantity, quality and price combined, far exceeds anything ever offered before in this or adjoining counties. This advantage over other dealers is obtained by their purchasing direct from the manufacturers, instead of buying through jobbers as most houses do, thereby saving the wholesale dealers profit. A liberal discount to families buying in one lot five or more pairs. Their ORDERED CLOTHING DEPARTMENT still maintains its reputation for style, neatness, durability and cheapness. In fact to get a neat and stylish suit at a reasonable price it is necessary to call at the Glasgow House. Full lines of GROCERIES, TEAS, &c., always on hand. TRA

OUT OF BEACH.
We two wandered by the bay,
Mr. and Mrs. Hart, said I, Quietly the stars lay.
Quiet was the sky.
And my darling stood gazed,
With her fair face upward raised;
Would the stars might be Never seen again, said she.
"Tell me, tell me, O my love, Why are stars so far above?"
On the shore we found a boat;
"Come, let us board," said I,
"Over the water lies the land."
There the stars are high,
So she leaned her o'er the side, Gazing down into the tide;
"Would the stars might be Nearer earth," said she.
"Tell me, true, if you know, Why are stars so far below?"

FAMILY MATTERS.
Gray marble can be rubbed with dissolved oil; and no spots will show.

Butter will remove tar spots and soap water will afterwards take out the grease stains.

If you get a fishbone in your throat, and it continues to stick there, swallow a raw egg. It will be almost certain to carry the bone along with it.

Spitting and vomiting of blood may be stopped by sage-juice mixed with a little honey. Take three teaspoonsful, and repeat if necessary every fifteen minutes.

The Teeth.—Salt will aid in removing tartar from the teeth.
Clean your teeth at least once a day with a tolerably strong solution of it using a rather soft toothbrush.

Paint.—To make a handy paint break an egg into a dish and beat slightly. Use the white only, if for white paint; then stir lead makes a good red paint. To this stir a little skimmed milk. Eggs that are a little too old to eat will do for this very well.

IRONMOULD.—Yellow stains commonly called ironmould, are removed from linen by hydrochloric acid or hot solution of oxalic acid.
Wash well in warm water afterwards.

Cabbage should always be boiled in two waters; because, according to medical authority, it contains an essential oil, which is apt to produce bad effects, and cooking it as suggested renders it soft and di-gestible.

The Man Who Drinks.

The man who drinks not only injures himself and family, but is an injury to all those with whom he comes in contact in the way of business.

If he is a doctor he endangers the life of his patient; if a lawyer he fails to do his duty to his client; and if a laborer he wrongs and injures his employers by getting under the influence of alcohol; and thus incapacitating himself for properly performing his labor. Any man in business, who has employed a number of workmen, knows how inconvenient it is to say nothing of the pecuniary loss and disappointment of customers, to have a man on who he is depending to perform certain piece of work, turn up drunk, and consequently untrustworthy, in the midst of a rush of business. In this way hundreds suffer from the use of intoxicants who personally never indulge in their use. Thus it is that a man who is steady and faithful to his employment, whatever that may be, even though not so competent in other respects, is a more desirable man to his employer than he who, by the use of intoxicating drinks, renders him unreliable; and the former will find employment and prosper where the latter is always liable to be without business.

A boy being asked by his teacher what occasioned the saltiness of the sea, after reflection, advanced with confidence the opinion that it must be owing to the codfish.
