READ AND REMEMBER.

Having purchased the entire stock of Groceries, Crockery, Glassware, Wall Paper, Stationery, &c., of Mr. Jas. Matthews, and leased the premises lately occupied by him as a store, I intend keeping a first-class stock of all the above-mentioned lines, which I will sell cheap for Cash or Produce only. Believing the Cash System to be the only right principle on which to do business, my motto will be Small Profits and Quick Returns.

I believe that I can supply the public with goods as cheap as they can be purchased elsewhere. All parties requiring goods are respectfully invited to come and examine my stock and see for themselves, that where they can buy for cash is the place for cheap goods. GEORGE YEMEN. N. B.—My present large stock of Crockery and Glassware will be sold at a very slight advance on cost prices, to make room for new stock. Now is the time for bargain. Don't forget the place, The Post Office Store Acton. GEO. YEMEN.

BUCHAM. Fashionable West End Dress, Millinery and Mantle Establishment. Guelph, October 1, 1876. BOOK AND JOB PRINTING PROMPTLY EXECUTED AT

One of Guelph's most enterprising merchants and thorough-going business men is Mr. A. O. Buchanan. Everything he undertakes to do is carried out in a thoroughly efficient manner. Last Wednesday evening the magnificent display in his store of the former efforts, and a splendid assortment of goods, witnessed the handsome exhibition of fine goods adapted to the season.

—An egotistic individual who de lights in the effusions of an "A. Eastman Wallace," is happy in having secured from the very accommodating editor of the Georgetown Herald a medium for the publication of his platonic effusions. A column in last week's issue is especially dedicated to the editor of THE FREE PRESS, by name, in which we are made to figure as one of the meanest of rogues for daring to exercise our judgment and declining to publish his communications—the wonderful A. Eastman Wallace's communication concerning Acton School matters. We certainly feel very badly wounded, and what's more, we live in deadly fear of having to undergo the infliction of another stab from his venomous goose quill. Like Macbeth's, our dreams are haunted with the vision of a dagger, and we are waiting for the "clock," and it may be that the "dagger" will some day be thrust deeper than we wot of. We must be circumspect, and deal gently with A. Eastman; yes, and we will give it sugar plums and buy it a hobby horse, and print all its letters, so will—the little darling? But, really, who is this A. Eastman Wallace? Where does he live, when he's to home? Is he the haughty teacher in our public school? Is he the highly honorable young man who made application for the position of head teacher before there was any likelihood of the becoming vacant? Is he "Wolden" he like to stir up trouble and invent charges against the present incumbent, and have him discharged, that there might be a vacancy? Is he the stranger who "lets it his duty" to inquire into the conduct of a school board in which he has no concern? Is he either a resident or a tax-payer of this village or county? By what right does he dictate to us what we shall do and what we shall not do, and we feel sorry for you, and we feel a much greater sorrow for you, friends here who we highly esteem, and who we doubt not are deeply mortified at your want of judgment and exhibition of temper. Had you had any chance of getting the coveted situation (should it at any time become vacant) you have certainly not improved it, but you have succeeded in "writing yourself down" as a thing but what is admirable in a teacher of youth, is but too palpably apparent. There now.

—Hillou, old man! where are you going? "Well, I heard 't'other day that young Yemen what used to work for Matthews, down to the Post Office Store, has bought out his hull stock of goods, and is selling them very cheap, and I thought I would step down and see for myself." Well, now da tell! Why I will go too, as my wife has just sent me out to lay in a stock of groceries for Christmas, and if he sells cheap, I should say that is the place to lay.

—Read Secord Bros' new advertisement all through twice, but if you wish to form a correct idea of the enormous stock of new, useful and tasty goods they have on hand and are receiving daily, it will be necessary to go and see it. Their store is replenished with beautiful and tempting goods of all kinds. We have not been to the Centennial but we have seen Secord Bros' store, and anything that beats it is worth seeing. Go and see, even if you don't want to buy. We admire their pluck in bringing such a stock to Acton.

Poultry Wanted. Christie, Henderson & Co. will be prepared, as soon as hard frost sets in, to buy any quantity of turkeys, geese, ducks and chickens, dressed nicely for market.

Warning. We have been compelled, in much against our will, to place about thirty accounts and notes in court this week. Many people apparently think that it is not necessary to pay any attention whatever to the notices served on them from time to time, both personally, through the post office and the public papers. They say they are perfectly good, and consider that as sufficient for them. This, however, is not sufficient. If we cannot pay for our goods by selling our creditors that we have several thousand dollars due to us by good men. No man is good who does not settle his accounts promptly, whether he be worth thousands of dollars, it is all the same. We have repeatedly called on those who owe us, and who cannot pay at once, to call and give their notes; though many have done so, there are yet many who have not, and these later we are now placing in court as rapidly as we can get them ready, and will continue to do so without regard to whether the party is good or bad, or whether the account is much or little. We have our own time to all to settle their accounts, and we will insist on it being done now.

Second Bros. Galloway Bros. make the best bread in the county. Give them a call. CASH FOR BUTTER.—Christie, Henderson & Co., Acton, will pay the highest cash price for any quantity of nice dairy butter. For good tea cakes and buns go to Galloway Bros., Acton Bakery. Galloway Bros. give 100 lbs. of bread for 100 lbs. of flour. CHRISTMAS IS COMING.—Many patterns of China tea sets; ladies' beautiful fancy china cups and saucers; gentlemen's fancy moustache cups and saucers; in great variety; flower vases, celeries, mugs, glassware; sick caps and sick feeders, no house should be without them; lamps of all kinds. Everything imaginable in granite and commonware, the largest, most beautiful, and cheapest display we have ever brought to Acton, at Secord Bros.
