

GRAND TRUNK TIME TABLE. Trains leave Acton as follows: GOING WEST. Night Express 1:04 a.m. Toronto mail 9:10 a.m. Day Express 1:37 p.m. Express 5:20 p.m. Galt mixed 7:07 p.m. GOING EAST. Night Express 3:38 a.m. Galt mixed 9:10 a.m. Day Express 11:34 a.m. Western mail 10:10 p.m. London mixed 10:10 p.m.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS. Spring Stock—Pyle & McNab. Auction Sale of House and Lot. Masonic Notice—Walker Lodge. Girl Wanted—Apply at this office. New Goods—Christie, Henderson & Co. Estate of Mrs. McNair—Notice to Debtors.

LOCAL MATTERS.

Halton County Spring Show at Milton tomorrow, Friday, 20th. Butter and Eggs have taken a tumble. The former commands twenty-two cents and the latter ten.

Carry the news to gentle Annie. Spring has come! Ethereal mildness, however, is a little behind time. But Spring has come, sure. We have all the indications—the organ grinder chained to a monkey—the green sprouts of the flowers—the wanderings of the tramp—the swelling buds of the trees—the inspiring music of the frogs—the cheerful and merry chirp of the robins.

Mr. James Gordon, whose remains were buried in Acton, recently, was one of the pioneer settlers in this vicinity, and for nearly thirty years was one of the most esteemed residents of Acton.

Notice in last week's FREE PRESS appears to have had the desired effect in securing the restoration of the late account books, belonging to the insolvent estate of Mrs. McNair. The books were left in the assignee's stable on Thursday night, where they were found the following morning. Parties indebted to the estate are referred to the assignee's notice in our advertising columns.

Acton now boasts of five Lodges of secret societies. They comprise the following orders, according to secretary: Sons of Temperance, Free Masons, Grangers, Knights of Pythias and Odd Fellows. All of them are said to be in a flourishing condition. An able-bodied man who is not a member, or about to become a member, of either one of the Orders, is now difficult to find.

The stone hotel, corner of Main and Mill street, has been occupied the past few weeks by Mr. McQuarrie, recently of Rockwood, who is waiting the decision of the License Commissioners respecting the granting of a hotel license. The house has undergone a thorough renovating and is nearly finished. If the commissioners see fit to grant the license, we have no doubt it will be kept in respectable and orderly manner.

Miscellaneous Writing. The annual meeting of the Acton branch of Methodist Missionary Society, held in the Methodist Church on Wednesday evening of last week, was well attended. Interesting addresses were delivered by Revs. Messrs. Keefe of Guelph, and Lever of Erin, and by Mr. John Speight, who acted as chairman. Rev. Mr. Calvert read the annual report, from which we learn that the subscriptions and collections amount to something over one hundred dollars, being a gratifying advance on former years.

Never mind the idle puff of those Guelph storekeepers, but call at the East-End and be convinced that you can get better goods for less money at home.

Odd Fellowship. A Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows was instituted in Acton last Friday evening. Members of the order were here from Guelph, Milton, Georgetown, Hillsburg, Brampton and other places—numbering altogether about seventy-five. The Lodge was instituted by D. D. G. M. Gillett, of Milton, assisted by Bro. H. Bos of Georgetown, acting as V. G.; Bro. Stanley, of Freeport Lodge, Guelph, as Grand Secretary; P. E. Wheeler, of Georgetown, as Marshal, and P. G. Standish, of the same place, as Warden. The following are the electives officers, who were duly installed: N. G., Bro. Joseph Brown. V. G., Bro. Joseph Allan. P. S., Bro. John Winsor. R. S., Bro. Thomas Kennedy. Treas., Bro. James Nicklin. The appointed officers, who were installed, are as follows: W. Bro. Isaac Francis, Com. Bro. Dr. McFarvin. R. S. N. G., Bro. A. Mann. R. S. V. G., Bro. Jas. McLagan. R. S. V. G., Bro. W. Williams. L. S. V. G., Bro. A. Winsor. R. S. S. E., Bro. Thos. Smyth. S. E. S. E., Bro. Geo. Winsor. O. G., Bro. McLaughlin. L. G., Bro. Robert Watson.

The Lodge will be known as "Acton Lodge, No. 204," and starts under very favorable auspices, having a membership of about twenty. After the business of instituting the Lodge had been finished, speeches were delivered by D. D. G. M. Gillett, of Milton; D. D. G. P. Stanley, of Guelph; P. G. Wheeler, of De. Freeport, of Georgetown; Rev. Bro. Calvert, of Acton, and others. An excellent supper was spread in Bro. T. Campbell's Hotel, and brought a pleasurable and enjoyable evening to a close.

Requesting Council. A meeting of the Freeport township Council will be held on Friday 27th inst. at Seawater, to appoint Pathmasters, etc.

Fire in Nassagaweya.

On Tuesday evening of last week, a fire in the employ of Mr. Elliott, lot 18, second concession of Nassagaweya, went out to the stables to see if the doors were securely fastened. While there he thought he would look for some eggs in a nest he knew of. For this purpose he lighted a match, and accidentally set fire to the straw. The flames did not spread very fast, but the lad could not extinguish them. He therefore left the barn and went into the house, in his fright not saying anything about the fire to Mr. Elliott. In a few moments the lad commenced crying, and on being asked what was the matter said he had dropped a match in the straw and had set the barn on fire. Mr. Elliott at once rushed outside and saw that the whole building was in flames. The fire had advanced so rapidly that it was impossible to save anything. Besides seed grain, feed, hay, etc., burned, there were four horses and ten head of cattle. Loss about $4,500. No insurance.

Obituary. Mr. James Gordon, whose remains were buried in Acton, recently, was one of the pioneer settlers in this vicinity, and for nearly thirty years was one of the most esteemed residents of Acton. He removed to the township of Kinloss, county of Bruce, some fifteen years ago, where he died after a few weeks' illness, on the evening of the 20th ult., in the 75th year of his age. Mr. Gordon was for many years elder in the Presbyterian Church in this village, and held the office of ruling elder in the church at Langside at the time of his lamented death. From an obituary in the Lachlan Standard we copy the following remarks: "He was a great lover of Canada, which he knew in its infant and struggling state of over 40 years ago. He had a fair share of the trials and privations of the early settlers, but recognizing in its then waste but fertile lands and healthy climate a happy asylum and a land of promise to the industrious and oppressed of the old countries, and he had the good fortune to live to see the fruit of his adoption develop and expand into the present magnificent dimensions of the Dominion. His funeral, notwithstanding the rather early hour and stormy weather, was largely attended to the railway station at Lucknow, whence his remains were conveyed by train to the place of interment in Acton, where he was buried beside his wife who predeceased him nearly 20 years. He leaves a surviving son and a daughter, Mrs. McKenzie, in this country, to mourn his loss. His younger and only surviving brother is the respected minister of Free Presbyterian Congregation, Glasgow, Scotland. He was one of the few survivors of a marked type of men that form an important element in the Presbyterian Church, linking as they do the present with the past, and whose place when they all disappear can never be filled up again. His known firm will be greatly missed at the annual gatherings of the surrounding congregations. He will be especially missed in his own congregation and neighborhood. His death reads as one more from the too neglected lesson of our own mortality. Arise, depart, for this is not your rest."

Obituary. Mr. James Gordon, whose remains were buried in Acton, recently, was one of the pioneer settlers in this vicinity, and for nearly thirty years was one of the most esteemed residents of Acton. He removed to the township of Kinloss, county of Bruce, some fifteen years ago, where he died after a few weeks' illness, on the evening of the 20th ult., in the 75th year of his age. Mr. Gordon was for many years elder in the Presbyterian Church in this village, and held the office of ruling elder in the church at Langside at the time of his lamented death. From an obituary in the Lachlan Standard we copy the following remarks: "He was a great lover of Canada, which he knew in its infant and struggling state of over 40 years ago. He had a fair share of the trials and privations of the early settlers, but recognizing in its then waste but fertile lands and healthy climate a happy asylum and a land of promise to the industrious and oppressed of the old countries, and he had the good fortune to live to see the fruit of his adoption develop and expand into the present magnificent dimensions of the Dominion. His funeral, notwithstanding the rather early hour and stormy weather, was largely attended to the railway station at Lucknow, whence his remains were conveyed by train to the place of interment in Acton, where he was buried beside his wife who predeceased him nearly 20 years. He leaves a surviving son and a daughter, Mrs. McKenzie, in this country, to mourn his loss. His younger and only surviving brother is the respected minister of Free Presbyterian Congregation, Glasgow, Scotland. He was one of the few survivors of a marked type of men that form an important element in the Presbyterian Church, linking as they do the present with the past, and whose place when they all disappear can never be filled up again. His known firm will be greatly missed at the annual gatherings of the surrounding congregations. He will be especially missed in his own congregation and neighborhood. His death reads as one more from the too neglected lesson of our own mortality. Arise, depart, for this is not your rest."

Obituary. Mr. James Gordon, whose remains were buried in Acton, recently, was one of the pioneer settlers in this vicinity, and for nearly thirty years was one of the most esteemed residents of Acton. He removed to the township of Kinloss, county of Bruce, some fifteen years ago, where he died after a few weeks' illness, on the evening of the 20th ult., in the 75th year of his age. Mr. Gordon was for many years elder in the Presbyterian Church in this village, and held the office of ruling elder in the church at Langside at the time of his lamented death. From an obituary in the Lachlan Standard we copy the following remarks: "He was a great lover of Canada, which he knew in its infant and struggling state of over 40 years ago. He had a fair share of the trials and privations of the early settlers, but recognizing in its then waste but fertile lands and healthy climate a happy asylum and a land of promise to the industrious and oppressed of the old countries, and he had the good fortune to live to see the fruit of his adoption develop and expand into the present magnificent dimensions of the Dominion. His funeral, notwithstanding the rather early hour and stormy weather, was largely attended to the railway station at Lucknow, whence his remains were conveyed by train to the place of interment in Acton, where he was buried beside his wife who predeceased him nearly 20 years. He leaves a surviving son and a daughter, Mrs. McKenzie, in this country, to mourn his loss. His younger and only surviving brother is the respected minister of Free Presbyterian Congregation, Glasgow, Scotland. He was one of the few survivors of a marked type of men that form an important element in the Presbyterian Church, linking as they do the present with the past, and whose place when they all disappear can never be filled up again. His known firm will be greatly missed at the annual gatherings of the surrounding congregations. He will be especially missed in his own congregation and neighborhood. His death reads as one more from the too neglected lesson of our own mortality. Arise, depart, for this is not your rest."

Obituary. Mr. James Gordon, whose remains were buried in Acton, recently, was one of the pioneer settlers in this vicinity, and for nearly thirty years was one of the most esteemed residents of Acton. He removed to the township of Kinloss, county of Bruce, some fifteen years ago, where he died after a few weeks' illness, on the evening of the 20th ult., in the 75th year of his age. Mr. Gordon was for many years elder in the Presbyterian Church in this village, and held the office of ruling elder in the church at Langside at the time of his lamented death. From an obituary in the Lachlan Standard we copy the following remarks: "He was a great lover of Canada, which he knew in its infant and struggling state of over 40 years ago. He had a fair share of the trials and privations of the early settlers, but recognizing in its then waste but fertile lands and healthy climate a happy asylum and a land of promise to the industrious and oppressed of the old countries, and he had the good fortune to live to see the fruit of his adoption develop and expand into the present magnificent dimensions of the Dominion. His funeral, notwithstanding the rather early hour and stormy weather, was largely attended to the railway station at Lucknow, whence his remains were conveyed by train to the place of interment in Acton, where he was buried beside his wife who predeceased him nearly 20 years. He leaves a surviving son and a daughter, Mrs. McKenzie, in this country, to mourn his loss. His younger and only surviving brother is the respected minister of Free Presbyterian Congregation, Glasgow, Scotland. He was one of the few survivors of a marked type of men that form an important element in the Presbyterian Church, linking as they do the present with the past, and whose place when they all disappear can never be filled up again. His known firm will be greatly missed at the annual gatherings of the surrounding congregations. He will be especially missed in his own congregation and neighborhood. His death reads as one more from the too neglected lesson of our own mortality. Arise, depart, for this is not your rest."

Obituary. Mr. James Gordon, whose remains were buried in Acton, recently, was one of the pioneer settlers in this vicinity, and for nearly thirty years was one of the most esteemed residents of Acton. He removed to the township of Kinloss, county of Bruce, some fifteen years ago, where he died after a few weeks' illness, on the evening of the 20th ult., in the 75th year of his age. Mr. Gordon was for many years elder in the Presbyterian Church in this village, and held the office of ruling elder in the church at Langside at the time of his lamented death. From an obituary in the Lachlan Standard we copy the following remarks: "He was a great lover of Canada, which he knew in its infant and struggling state of over 40 years ago. He had a fair share of the trials and privations of the early settlers, but recognizing in its then waste but fertile lands and healthy climate a happy asylum and a land of promise to the industrious and oppressed of the old countries, and he had the good fortune to live to see the fruit of his adoption develop and expand into the present magnificent dimensions of the Dominion. His funeral, notwithstanding the rather early hour and stormy weather, was largely attended to the railway station at Lucknow, whence his remains were conveyed by train to the place of interment in Acton, where he was buried beside his wife who predeceased him nearly 20 years. He leaves a surviving son and a daughter, Mrs. McKenzie, in this country, to mourn his loss. His younger and only surviving brother is the respected minister of Free Presbyterian Congregation, Glasgow, Scotland. He was one of the few survivors of a marked type of men that form an important element in the Presbyterian Church, linking as they do the present with the past, and whose place when they all disappear can never be filled up again. His known firm will be greatly missed at the annual gatherings of the surrounding congregations. He will be especially missed in his own congregation and neighborhood. His death reads as one more from the too neglected lesson of our own mortality. Arise, depart, for this is not your rest."

Obituary. Mr. James Gordon, whose remains were buried in Acton, recently, was one of the pioneer settlers in this vicinity, and for nearly thirty years was one of the most esteemed residents of Acton. He removed to the township of Kinloss, county of Bruce, some fifteen years ago, where he died after a few weeks' illness, on the evening of the 20th ult., in the 75th year of his age. Mr. Gordon was for many years elder in the Presbyterian Church in this village, and held the office of ruling elder in the church at Langside at the time of his lamented death. From an obituary in the Lachlan Standard we copy the following remarks: "He was a great lover of Canada, which he knew in its infant and struggling state of over 40 years ago. He had a fair share of the trials and privations of the early settlers, but recognizing in its then waste but fertile lands and healthy climate a happy asylum and a land of promise to the industrious and oppressed of the old countries, and he had the good fortune to live to see the fruit of his adoption develop and expand into the present magnificent dimensions of the Dominion. His funeral, notwithstanding the rather early hour and stormy weather, was largely attended to the railway station at Lucknow, whence his remains were conveyed by train to the place of interment in Acton, where he was buried beside his wife who predeceased him nearly 20 years. He leaves a surviving son and a daughter, Mrs. McKenzie, in this country, to mourn his loss. His younger and only surviving brother is the respected minister of Free Presbyterian Congregation, Glasgow, Scotland. He was one of the few survivors of a marked type of men that form an important element in the Presbyterian Church, linking as they do the present with the past, and whose place when they all disappear can never be filled up again. His known firm will be greatly missed at the annual gatherings of the surrounding congregations. He will be especially missed in his own congregation and neighborhood. His death reads as one more from the too neglected lesson of our own mortality. Arise, depart, for this is not your rest."

Obituary. Mr. James Gordon, whose remains were buried in Acton, recently, was one of the pioneer settlers in this vicinity, and for nearly thirty years was one of the most esteemed residents of Acton. He removed to the township of Kinloss, county of Bruce, some fifteen years ago, where he died after a few weeks' illness, on the evening of the 20th ult., in the 75th year of his age. Mr. Gordon was for many years elder in the Presbyterian Church in this village, and held the office of ruling elder in the church at Langside at the time of his lamented death. From an obituary in the Lachlan Standard we copy the following remarks: "He was a great lover of Canada, which he knew in its infant and struggling state of over 40 years ago. He had a fair share of the trials and privations of the early settlers, but recognizing in its then waste but fertile lands and healthy climate a happy asylum and a land of promise to the industrious and oppressed of the old countries, and he had the good fortune to live to see the fruit of his adoption develop and expand into the present magnificent dimensions of the Dominion. His funeral, notwithstanding the rather early hour and stormy weather, was largely attended to the railway station at Lucknow, whence his remains were conveyed by train to the place of interment in Acton, where he was buried beside his wife who predeceased him nearly 20 years. He leaves a surviving son and a daughter, Mrs. McKenzie, in this country, to mourn his loss. His younger and only surviving brother is the respected minister of Free Presbyterian Congregation, Glasgow, Scotland. He was one of the few survivors of a marked type of men that form an important element in the Presbyterian Church, linking as they do the present with the past, and whose place when they all disappear can never be filled up again. His known firm will be greatly missed at the annual gatherings of the surrounding congregations. He will be especially missed in his own congregation and neighborhood. His death reads as one more from the too neglected lesson of our own mortality. Arise, depart, for this is not your rest."

Obituary. Mr. James Gordon, whose remains were buried in Acton, recently, was one of the pioneer settlers in this vicinity, and for nearly thirty years was one of the most esteemed residents of Acton. He removed to the township of Kinloss, county of Bruce, some fifteen years ago, where he died after a few weeks' illness, on the evening of the 20th ult., in the 75th year of his age. Mr. Gordon was for many years elder in the Presbyterian Church in this village, and held the office of ruling elder in the church at Langside at the time of his lamented death. From an obituary in the Lachlan Standard we copy the following remarks: "He was a great lover of Canada, which he knew in its infant and struggling state of over 40 years ago. He had a fair share of the trials and privations of the early settlers, but recognizing in its then waste but fertile lands and healthy climate a happy asylum and a land of promise to the industrious and oppressed of the old countries, and he had the good fortune to live to see the fruit of his adoption develop and expand into the present magnificent dimensions of the Dominion. His funeral, notwithstanding the rather early hour and stormy weather, was largely attended to the railway station at Lucknow, whence his remains were conveyed by train to the place of interment in Acton, where he was buried beside his wife who predeceased him nearly 20 years. He leaves a surviving son and a daughter, Mrs. McKenzie, in this country, to mourn his loss. His younger and only surviving brother is the respected minister of Free Presbyterian Congregation, Glasgow, Scotland. He was one of the few survivors of a marked type of men that form an important element in the Presbyterian Church, linking as they do the present with the past, and whose place when they all disappear can never be filled up again. His known firm will be greatly missed at the annual gatherings of the surrounding congregations. He will be especially missed in his own congregation and neighborhood. His death reads as one more from the too neglected lesson of our own mortality. Arise, depart, for this is not your rest."

Obituary. Mr. James Gordon, whose remains were buried in Acton, recently, was one of the pioneer settlers in this vicinity, and for nearly thirty years was one of the most esteemed residents of Acton. He removed to the township of Kinloss, county of Bruce, some fifteen years ago, where he died after a few weeks' illness, on the evening of the 20th ult., in the 75th year of his age. Mr. Gordon was for many years elder in the Presbyterian Church in this village, and held the office of ruling elder in the church at Langside at the time of his lamented death. From an obituary in the Lachlan Standard we copy the following remarks: "He was a great lover of Canada, which he knew in its infant and struggling state of over 40 years ago. He had a fair share of the trials and privations of the early settlers, but recognizing in its then waste but fertile lands and healthy climate a happy asylum and a land of promise to the industrious and oppressed of the old countries, and he had the good fortune to live to see the fruit of his adoption develop and expand into the present magnificent dimensions of the Dominion. His funeral, notwithstanding the rather early hour and stormy weather, was largely attended to the railway station at Lucknow, whence his remains were conveyed by train to the place of interment in Acton, where he was buried beside his wife who predeceased him nearly 20 years. He leaves a surviving son and a daughter, Mrs. McKenzie, in this country, to mourn his loss. His younger and only surviving brother is the respected minister of Free Presbyterian Congregation, Glasgow, Scotland. He was one of the few survivors of a marked type of men that form an important element in the Presbyterian Church, linking as they do the present with the past, and whose place when they all disappear can never be filled up again. His known firm will be greatly missed at the annual gatherings of the surrounding congregations. He will be especially missed in his own congregation and neighborhood. His death reads as one more from the too neglected lesson of our own mortality. Arise, depart, for this is not your rest."

Obituary. Mr. James Gordon, whose remains were buried in Acton, recently, was one of the pioneer settlers in this vicinity, and for nearly thirty years was one of the most esteemed residents of Acton. He removed to the township of Kinloss, county of Bruce, some fifteen years ago, where he died after a few weeks' illness, on the evening of the 20th ult., in the 75th year of his age. Mr. Gordon was for many years elder in the Presbyterian Church in this village, and held the office of ruling elder in the church at Langside at the time of his lamented death. From an obituary in the Lachlan Standard we copy the following remarks: "He was a great lover of Canada, which he knew in its infant and struggling state of over 40 years ago. He had a fair share of the trials and privations of the early settlers, but recognizing in its then waste but fertile lands and healthy climate a happy asylum and a land of promise to the industrious and oppressed of the old countries, and he had the good fortune to live to see the fruit of his adoption develop and expand into the present magnificent dimensions of the Dominion. His funeral, notwithstanding the rather early hour and stormy weather, was largely attended to the railway station at Lucknow, whence his remains were conveyed by train to the place of interment in Acton, where he was buried beside his wife who predeceased him nearly 20 years. He leaves a surviving son and a daughter, Mrs. McKenzie, in this country, to mourn his loss. His younger and only surviving brother is the respected minister of Free Presbyterian Congregation, Glasgow, Scotland. He was one of the few survivors of a marked type of men that form an important element in the Presbyterian Church, linking as they do the present with the past, and whose place when they all disappear can never be filled up again. His known firm will be greatly missed at the annual gatherings of the surrounding congregations. He will be especially missed in his own congregation and neighborhood. His death reads as one more from the too neglected lesson of our own mortality. Arise, depart, for this is not your rest."

Obituary. Mr. James Gordon, whose remains were buried in Acton, recently, was one of the pioneer settlers in this vicinity, and for nearly thirty years was one of the most esteemed residents of Acton. He removed to the township of Kinloss, county of Bruce, some fifteen years ago, where he died after a few weeks' illness, on the evening of the 20th ult., in the 75th year of his age. Mr. Gordon was for many years elder in the Presbyterian Church in this village, and held the office of ruling elder in the church at Langside at the time of his lamented death. From an obituary in the Lachlan Standard we copy the following remarks: "He was a great lover of Canada, which he knew in its infant and struggling state of over 40 years ago. He had a fair share of the trials and privations of the early settlers, but recognizing in its then waste but fertile lands and healthy climate a happy asylum and a land of promise to the industrious and oppressed of the old countries, and he had the good fortune to live to see the fruit of his adoption develop and expand into the present magnificent dimensions of the Dominion. His funeral, notwithstanding the rather early hour and stormy weather, was largely attended to the railway station at Lucknow, whence his remains were conveyed by train to the place of interment in Acton, where he was buried beside his wife who predeceased him nearly 20 years. He leaves a surviving son and a daughter, Mrs. McKenzie, in this country, to mourn his loss. His younger and only surviving brother is the respected minister of Free Presbyterian Congregation, Glasgow, Scotland. He was one of the few survivors of a marked type of men that form an important element in the Presbyterian Church, linking as they do the present with the past, and whose place when they all disappear can never be filled up again. His known firm will be greatly missed at the annual gatherings of the surrounding congregations. He will be especially missed in his own congregation and neighborhood. His death reads as one more from the too neglected lesson of our own mortality. Arise, depart, for this is not your rest."

Obituary. Mr. James Gordon, whose remains were buried in Acton, recently, was one of the pioneer settlers in this vicinity, and for nearly thirty years was one of the most esteemed residents of Acton. He removed to the township of Kinloss, county of Bruce, some fifteen years ago, where he died after a few weeks' illness, on the evening of the 20th ult., in the 75th year of his age. Mr. Gordon was for many years elder in the Presbyterian Church in this village, and held the office of ruling elder in the church at Langside at the time of his lamented death. From an obituary in the Lachlan Standard we copy the following remarks: "He was a great lover of Canada, which he knew in its infant and struggling state of over 40 years ago. He had a fair share of the trials and privations of the early settlers, but recognizing in its then waste but fertile lands and healthy climate a happy asylum and a land of promise to the industrious and oppressed of the old countries, and he had the good fortune to live to see the fruit of his adoption develop and expand into the present magnificent dimensions of the Dominion. His funeral, notwithstanding the rather early hour and stormy weather, was largely attended to the railway station at Lucknow, whence his remains were conveyed by train to the place of interment in Acton, where he was buried beside his wife who predeceased him nearly 20 years. He leaves a surviving son and a daughter, Mrs. McKenzie, in this country, to mourn his loss. His younger and only surviving brother is the respected minister of Free Presbyterian Congregation, Glasgow, Scotland. He was one of the few survivors of a marked type of men that form an important element in the Presbyterian Church, linking as they do the present with the past, and whose place when they all disappear can never be filled up again. His known firm will be greatly missed at the annual gatherings of the surrounding congregations. He will be especially missed in his own congregation and neighborhood. His death reads as one more from the too neglected lesson of our own mortality. Arise, depart, for this is not your rest."

Obituary. Mr. James Gordon, whose remains were buried in Acton, recently, was one of the pioneer settlers in this vicinity, and for nearly thirty years was one of the most esteemed residents of Acton. He removed to the township of Kinloss, county of Bruce, some fifteen years ago, where he died after a few weeks' illness, on the evening of the 20th ult., in the 75th year of his age. Mr. Gordon was for many years elder in the Presbyterian Church in this village, and held the office of ruling elder in the church at Langside at the time of his lamented death. From an obituary in the Lachlan Standard we copy the following remarks: "He was a great lover of Canada, which he knew in its infant and struggling state of over 40 years ago. He had a fair share of the trials and privations of the early settlers, but recognizing in its then waste but fertile lands and healthy climate a happy asylum and a land of promise to the industrious and oppressed of the old countries, and he had the good fortune to live to see the fruit of his adoption develop and expand into the present magnificent dimensions of the Dominion. His funeral, notwithstanding the rather early hour and stormy weather, was largely attended to the railway station at Lucknow, whence his remains were conveyed by train to the place of interment in Acton, where he was buried beside his wife who predeceased him nearly 20 years. He leaves a surviving son and a daughter, Mrs. McKenzie, in this country, to mourn his loss. His younger and only surviving brother is the respected minister of Free Presbyterian Congregation, Glasgow, Scotland. He was one of the few survivors of a marked type of men that form an important element in the Presbyterian Church, linking as they do the present with the past, and whose place when they all disappear can never be filled up again. His known firm will be greatly missed at the annual gatherings of the surrounding congregations. He will be especially missed in his own congregation and neighborhood. His death reads as one more from the too neglected lesson of our own mortality. Arise, depart, for this is not your rest."

30 CASES NEW SPRING GOODS

We have opened up recent extensive purchases, and are prepared to show a Magnificent

STOCK OF NEW GOODS.

We invite inspection from every Lady. Fashionable West End Dress, Millinery and Mantle Establishment, Guelph, April 8, 1877.

ONTARIO SADDLERY, ACTON.

The subscriber takes this opportunity of thanking his numerous customers for the very liberal patronage given him the past year, and would state that it is his motto to do his Square and Honest Business

The undersigned begs leave to inform the people of Acton and surrounding neighborhood that he has procured a magnificent HARNESS, and is prepared to attend and conduct Funerals on the shortest notice and most moderate terms.

Repairing Done with Neatness COLLARS A SPECIALTY. R. CREECH. Acton, Feb. 14, 1877.

MICHAEL SPEIGHT, General Blacksmith, Carriage and Wagon-maker. Best Horse-Shoes in the County. Perfect satisfaction guaranteed by no price charged.

REMOVAL. Day's Bookstore has been removed across the street to the store recently occupied by Mr. Geo. Jeffrey, nearly opposite the old stand.

Greater Bargains than ever at Day's. Guelph, March, 1877.

ACTON LIVERY & SALE STABLE. J. P. ALLAN. Takes pleasure in announcing to the public generally that he is prepared to furnish First-Class Horses and Carriages at Reasonable Rates.

LIST OF MUSIC BOOKS. Bookseller, Guelph. Burrows' Pianoforte Primer. Jousse's Musical Catechism. Bertini's New Method for the Piano. Clarke's New Method for the Piano. Hinton's Piano Forte School. Howe's Piano without a Master. Richardson's New Modern School. Gilze's Parlor Organ. Silver Wreath (Vocal). 100 different Music Books.

A Big Discount on all MUSIC BOOKS AT ANDERSON'S CHEAP BOOKSTORE. On the East side of Wyndham Street, GUELPH.

JOB PRINTING of all kinds neatly and promptly executed at the FREE PRESS OFFICE, Next the Post Office, Mill Street.

WAGGONS. Now is the time to leave your order At J. Ryder's Factory for a Stylish Buggy or Serviceable Wagon.

Now is a good time to secure bargains. Strict attention given to Horse-Shoeing & General Blacksmithing. JAMES RYDER. Acton, Feb. 26, 1877.

THAT WONDERFUL MAN. FIRST ARRIVALS OUR MILINERY DEPARTMENT. SHOW GOODS.

Direct Importations—Important to the Public—Great Sensation among the Ladies. 187,320 YARDS OF RIBBONS

Bought by Mr. David Hogg, in London, England, at half value, now offering exactly at-half-price, at our store, Guelph, 4 yards beautiful silk ribbon for 10 cents, 3 yards beautiful silk ribbon for 10 cents. Come and see.

Crompton's Adjustable Corset is only $1 per Pair. These are the best goods in the market. Ladies see them before purchasing elsewhere.

Ladies' New Dress Goods, Ladies' New Black Silks, Ladies' New Plain and Brocaded Colored Silks, Ladies' New Mantle and Jacket Cloths, Ladies' New Mantles—very beautiful goods.

1877. SPRING. 1877. M'LEOD, ANDERSON & CO., GEORGETOWN.

Take pleasure in announcing to their customers and the public that they have received and opened out for sale the largest, finest, and best assorted stock of DRY GOODS, MILLINERY and MANTLES, CLOTHING, TWEEDS, HATS and CAPS, &c., in this section of the Dominion.

We have ransacked the markets of the world and think that we can suit every one who wants to buy good Goods, cheap. Ladies, we have all the new leading colors and styles in Plain and Fancy Dress Goods, Black Silks, Colored Silks, Poplins, Matellasses, Cashmeres, Persian and Oriental Fabrics, Grenadines, Percales, &c., with trimmings and Buttons to match. Prints an immense variety.

Our Millinery and Mantle Department has been entirely reorganized and improved, it is well worth your trouble to call and see our magnificent stock of Stylish Millinery. ORDERED CLOTHING.—We have the latest styles and patterns direct from the mills. Gents, if you want a really superb fitting suit at a moderate price, call and see our stock of Tweeds, Coatings, &c., we cannot fail to suit you.

Hats and Caps, Gents Furnishings, &c., a splendid stock, very cheap. Our Staple Department has had our very best attention, having bought our Cottons, Tickings, Shirtings, &c., last December when Cotton Goods were so very low, we can offer and are selling goods less than we can buy them to-day. Carpets, Oil Cloths, Rugs, Lace Curtains &c., and House Furnishing Goods of all kinds. Housekeepers you should call and see our splendid stock of Carpets, etc.

Boots and Shoes.—We are this season selling very cheap and keep a very fine assortment on hand. We propose to sell everybody who has any money to lay out this spring, the very best of Goods at the very lowest bottom prices.

We would return our thanks for the very large and increasing patronage hitherto so liberally bestowed upon us, and we are prepared to sell Goods cheaper than ever for Cash only.

McLEOD, ANDERSON & Co., April 8, 1877. MAMMOTH HOUSE, GEORGETOWN.

GEORGE HYNDS, Watchmaker and Jeweller, POST OFFICE STORE, ACTON, ONT.

My work is all giving satisfaction, and you will find this is the place to bring your Watches, Clocks and Jewellery. THE FINEST SELECTION OF JEWELLERY, THE LATEST STYLES IN JEWELLERY, AND THE BEST STOCK OF WATCHES AND CLOCKS, Will always be seen at GEORGE HYNDS' Jewellery Store, Acton. February 7, 1876.

SPRING HAS COME

Immense Quantities of New Goods FOR THE LION.

THE LARGEST, BEST ASSORTED AND CHEAPEST STOCK OF DRY GOODS West of Toronto.

This is no empty brag, but sober truth—"which nobody can deny." Our aim has been, and always will be, to keep up the reputation that The Lion is the Cheapest Store in Ontario.

Crompton's Celebrated Adjustable Corset. We have just received another lot which we are selling at 37 1/2 cents. This we guarantee to be the genuine article, and exactly the same as that for which others are charging One Dollar.

SPECIAL NOTICE. Dressmaking Branch. We have the best Dressmaker in Canada, and our charges are lower than any other House.

REMEMBER OUR CARPETS. We have a larger stock of Brussels Carpets, Tapestry Carpets, Wool Carpets, than all the other Stores in Guelph put together.

J. D. WILLIAMSON & CO. Guelph, April 3, 1877.

O. T. HILL, ACTON PLANING MILLS.

DEALER IN AND PUMP, Sash, Door and Blind Factory.

THOMAS EBBAGE, Manufacturer of Window Sash, Doors, Venetian Blinds, Mouldings, and other Building Requirements.

RUBBER PAINT COMPANY. Of Cleveland, Ohio. Cash for Hides. Acton, July 18, 1876.

Vertical text on the left edge of the page, including "DRE.", "CK", "Domestic", "HINGS", "McNAB", "RY!", "AINS", "RIES", "ICE", "Co.", "Stock", "Acton", "Goods", "last", "to-day", "N & CO.", "ING", "nging", "ared to do all", "alooming", "nging", "and on reason", "in and Apes", "WALKER", "33-3m", "urham Bell", "on the farm", "Grand Trunk", "Durham, 26", "Leproy (1876)", "delph, got by", "dam Seapoe", "S. SMITH", "33-3m", "eorthly an-", "and victor", "Million Busi-", "ness recently", "ithness, near", "patronage of", "ly solicited", "manner and", "S. MANN", "33-3m", "erward sell", "Office Store", "no. Year", "2000"