Then waiet the precious time no more; But let the parson tie us Sew firmly that the marriage knot Shall never be cut bias. In peaceful quietude we'll float On life's unruffled tide, Nor lot the bustle of the world "Pull-back," us as we glide.

The Cow's Good Name.

HOW AN IRISHMAN EMPLOYED BY A MILKMAN DOES IT.

A landlord in one of our Western villages a few months ago engaged as his "man of all work" an Irishman just fresh from the old sod. Patrick was a good, steady sort of a fellow, and went about his business every day with the regularity of clockword. The cows were milked, the stable was attended to, and everything was looked after in style. Twice every day he came in with a pail brimming over from each of the cows, and the landlord was in the habit of boasting to his neighbors how well the cows kept up, notwithstanding the falling away in the pasture. But a few days ago the man set to other work, and it fell to the lut of one of the female attendants to do the milking. Milk as well as she would, however, she couldn't manage to squeeze more than hulf a puil from each cow, which fact was reported to the landlord. " How is this, pat?" he asked. "The girl says she can't get more than half a pail from each cow, and you always brought in a pail full." "Faix now," said Pat, "nuther could I but shure I belaved I must get you s pail full ivery time as at the firsht, an' so I filled it up widwater !" · Patrick couldn't understand the ways of milch cows, but he was bound to keep up their

ACTON.

In presenting our regular half-yearly Circular to the Public we have again to return thanks to our numerous customers and the general public for the very large share of business extended to us, and in doing so we can only assure them that no effort on our part will be spared to merit a continuance of their favors. As heretofore it will be our constant aim to advance their interests as far as lies in our power, and at all times endeavor to show as large and complete a Stock as can possibly be found in one establishment. Feeling assured that the bountiful harvest of the past season with a reasonable prospect of fair average prices for all kinds of farm produce, will cause a great revival in trade, we have purchased this season a larger stock than in any previous year, and. having done so with a knowledge of the wants and tastes of our customers, we fee assured we shall not be disappointed in finding ready demand therefor. As heretofore our stock comprises

General Dry

As to prices we are determined not to be undersold by any one either in Acton or outside. We manage our business at the least possible expense and will sell at all times at the lowest possible prices.

We extend a cordial invitation to examine our new Stock, which we trust will in style, variety and good value, compare more than favorably with any house of the kind in the trade. In the fall of the year no one requires a line of credit as money is then more plentiful than at any other season of the year, besides our experience teaches us it is in all cases infinitely better to pay as you go. Our motto heretofore has been

CASH AND SMALL PROFITS.

And we are determined to adhere firmly to the principle.

We find it impossible to enumerate all lines of Goods in stock, but will refer to some
